HUBER PLANT AT PEAK CAPACITY TO FILL ORDERS

1927 Production Will Set Record for 10-Year Period Claim

300 MEN ON PAYROLL

Sale of Road Rollers Is Especially Intensive at This Time

Production at the Huber Manufacturing Co. plant during 1927 will establish one of the highest marks in the company's record during the last 10 years, according to information coming from official sources today.

The Huber plant is now running at peak capacity with approximately 300 men on the payroll and orders are being filled for all of the company's products, including tractors, road rollers and threshing machinery, S. E. Barlow, president, stated.

In order to maintain an adequate production, the plant is operating on a full six-day schedule weekly, Saturday afternoons included.

Schedule To Continue

Altough the company's busiest season will terminate about Sept. 1, it is expected that operations will be continued throughout the year somewhere near the present schedule, Mr. Barlow indicated.

Sale of Huber road rollers is especially extensive, various types of this equipment being supplied to construction contractors in all parts of the country.

The five and seven-ton rollers, made for the first time this year, are among the most popular Huber products and have found an extensive market among road builders generally. The lighter weight type of roller is being generally adopted for road construction work and contractors report that the new Huber models rank among the best on the market.

60 Years Ago---
Famous Poem Was Written
Now---
Author Hears It Over Radio

San Diego, Calif., July 11—

"Englands sun was slowly setting
O'er the hills so far away,
Filling all the land with beauty at
The close of one sad day:
And the last rays kissed the forehead
Of a man and maiden fair.
He with step so slow and weakened,
She with sunny, floating hair,
He with sad bowed head, and thoughtful
She with lips so cold and white,
Struggling to keep back the murmur,
'Curfew must not ring tonight'"

Sixty years ago those lines were written, and recently Mrs. Rose Hartwick Thorpe, author of "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight" heard her lines lauded over the radio.

For her it was a beautiful memory of the inspiration behind the poem which millions have read and heard.

"Forgets" Money End

She will discuss no details of the "money end" of the poem, other than to inform her auditors that it was copyrighted by a publishing company without her permission. She received no material gain from it.

But on the anniversary of this world-famous poem, and with the approach July 18 of her seventy-seventh birthday she tells of her love for poetry, how she dislikes the change from mid-victorian to free verse. The realism of today appeals to her as unseemly.

"Love and Loyalty," by an unknown author, inspired the famous curfew poem. That story came into Mrs. Thorpe's hands when she was 16, she says, and so excited her imagination that she did not rest until "Curfew" was complete.

Fame Spreads Rapidly

Three months after the poem was published its fame had spread over the United States and Canada. Soon it reached England, where it was received with great warmth. It became a favorite of Queen Victoria, who had historians investigate the foundation of the story.

It was found that the main events occurred at Chertsey, some 20 miles from London. The church, with its tower and bells, stands today.

For many years after the poem appeared, Mrs. Thorpe did not touch her poetic pen. Then loss of wealth sent her husband and her "on the road," giving author's recitals and writing.

Grandchildren Live With Her

With her daughter and grandchildren living here with her, Mrs. Thorpe finds much to interest her at home. There is a fine ranch at Julian, in the mountains, where she passes much of her spare time. Occasionally she writes, but only on special order.

Today she rests from the labors of life, famous for the work of a few hours and an inspiration, but in England.

"Over the distant hills came Cromwell
Bessie saw him, and her brow
Lately white with sickening terror
glows with sudden beauty now;
At his feet she told her story, showed her hands all bruised and torn;
And her sweet young face so haggard,
with a look so sad and worn
Touched his heart with sudden pity, lit
his eyes with misty light;
'Go, your lover lives,' cried Cromwell
'Curfew shall not ring tonight'"

Marion Man Elected Head Of New Company Replacing Hadfield-Penfield Concern

W. A. Riddell Chosen President of Bucyrus Organization of That Name; M. O. Garner, of New York, Is Named Vice President

W. A. Riddell, of Marion, who for the past year has served as receiver for the Hadfield-Penfield Steel Co., at Bucyrus, has been elected president of the W. A. Riddell Co., of Bucyrus, a new organization of that city, which will replace the Hadfield-Penfield concern, according to word received from there today.

Reorganization of the Bucyrus company under the new name follows the sale of the properties out of receivership to satisfy government claims.

Morton D. Joyce, New York, was the purchaser at the sale on June 9, submitting the largest bid of $510,000. Mr. Joyce is said to have represented the National Surety Co., of New York, which underwrote the sale. It was stated at Bucyrus that the final transfer was made when the surety company paid the government the difference between the purchase price and its claim of approximately $1,750,000.

Mr. Riddell moved to Marion one year ago when he became connected with the Bucyrus concern after being appointed by Judge D. C. Westenhaver, of the Cleveland Federal Court, where the government launched its action for a receivership. He came here from Fredericktown, Md., where he has extensive manufacturing interests.

Garner Vice-President

The personell of the company's directorate has not been announced. M. O. Garner, New York, was elected vice president, and George M. Schmidt, Rochester, N. Y., secretary-treasurer, replacing R. O. Perrott, Bucyrus, former secretary, and E. A. Baker, also of Bucyrus, former treasurer.

For the purpose of winding up the affairs of the old company, H. E. Newcomb was designated as receiver, succeeding Riddell, resigned. Newcomb was attorney during Riddell's tenure as receiver.

It was indicated that Riddell may be chosen general manager for the new company.

Schmidt has been here since Jan. 10, last, in the capacity of auditor under the receivership.

The future policy of the company has not been announced.

FRISCO AND OAKLAND WILL WELCOME FLIERS

Dozen Planes To Roar Greetings to Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger

San Francisco, July 11—Two cities—San Francisco and Oakland—will welcome the heroes of the first Hawaiian flight tomorrow.

When the liner Maiu, carrying lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger back to the mainland, sticks her prow through the Golden Gate at dawn tomorrow, a dozen planes from Crissy Field will roar a welcome from above.

An informal greeting—but far more important than the official one—will come from Mrs. Maitland and Mrs. Hegenberger who will also meet the Maiu at quarantine.

Debarking at the dock, the army aviators will head a parade up historic Market-st.

After a public reception at civic center and a chamber of commerce luncheon, the fliers will be turned over to Oakland, starting point of the 2400-mile flight.

Another parade and reception and banquet at which 2,500 guests will be seated will follow. Then the fliers will be taken to Lake Merritt, in the heart of the city, which has been turned into a Hawaiian carnival ground in their honor.

GOV. JACKSON'S NAME IS DRAWN INTO SCANDAL

Check Purported To Have Been Given by Stephenson Is Made Public

FIRST PROOF, CLAIM

Name of Executive on Back of Paper Indicates It Has Been Cashed

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11—The name of Gov. Ed Jackson was brought into the D. C. Stephenson scandal today through the submission for publication of a check dated Sept. 12, 1925, for $2,500 purported to have been given to the governor by the former klan grand dragon.

The purported check, made public by Lloyd O. Hill, attorney for Stephenson, has been in the lawyer's possession for some time. It was regarded by Hill as first definite proof that "Steve" at last is going to "tell all." Stephenson is trying to get out of the state prison where he is serving a life term for the Madge Oberholtzer murder.

Attached to the purported check was a little slip bearing these words:

"This check is the first one-fourth of the $10,000 given Jackson personally for primary expenses."

Although there is possibility that the signature may be a clever forgery, the name of Ed Jackson appears on the back of the check indicating it had been cashed. The name is written in some handwriting strikingly similar to that of the governor, while Stephenson's alleged signature appears authentic to those who knew the former klan head.

Stamps on the alleged cancelled check are those of the Union Trust Co. and Indiana National Bank of Indianapolis and the Federal Reserve National Bank of Cleveland, O. The alleged check was drawn on the First National Bank of Columbus, O.

Governor Jackson is visiting relatives here.

Pony Express of Old West Springs Into Action Again With Letter for President

Invitation to Coolidge To Visit Wyoming Burned into Calfskin; 27 Riders on Best Horses in West Taking Part in Regeneration of Old Event

Rapid City, S. D., July 11—The boys who used to carry the mail from Omaha to Frisco when the west was nothing but a prairie were back in the saddle today, retracing the old Deadwood Trail.

It was the pony express riding again.

Gone, however, were the dangers of the road which beset them in the mad days of the 70's. Gone, also, the torturous mountain trails, now replaced by the graded, graveled roads of a latter day civilization.

And in place of the saddle bag crammed full of mail was a single letter.

Bid of Wyoming

That letter was an invitation to President Coolidge from the people of Wyoming urging him to visit the state, any portion of it even, as Gov. Frank Emerson put it, the "dude ranch country" at Yellowstone Park.

Early this morning, Butch Bell rode out of Cheyenne with the governor's invitation, the first of 27 riders who will span the 270 miles to the summer White House in the Black Hills. Throughout the night the relay will continue until, at about noon tomorrow, Dakota Clyde Jones, only real cowboy of the presidential entourage, delivers the calfskin upon which the invitation has been burnt.

The best horsemen along the route are carrying Wyoming's bid for a presidential visit and their mounts are the best specimens of horse flesh that can be assembled. Francis E. Warren, grandson of the senator from Wyoming, is the second man in the relay, and before the day is through several of the men who comprised the pony express in the days when it meant something will have ridden a 10-mile stretch of the journey.

Not Likely to Go

Governor Emerson and a party of prominent Wyoming citizens are preceding the riders in automobiles and will be on hand at the state game lodge when Jones, astride "Calvin Coolidge," delivers the invitation into the hands of the president.

It is said to relate, however, that outside the color stuff for the movies—little good will come from the gesture. Mr. Coolidge already has indicated he will not venture outside the state of South Dakota during his vacation.

EX-CHIEF GOES ON TRIAL FOR CANTON MURDER

S. A. Lengel Charged with Assassination of Don R. Mellett, Publisher

SHORT TRIAL PREDICTED

Floyd Streitenberger, Former City Detective, Expected To Be Star Witness

Canton, July 11—On the eve of the first anniversary of the assassination of Don R. Mellett, former Canton Daily news publisher, the fifth man indicted in connection with the death of the vice crusader went on trial here today.

S.A. Lengel.

He was Saranus A. Lengel, deposed chief of Canton police, who was ousted from office last August by Mayor S. M. Swarts, following the Mellett murder. Lengel at the time was charged with laxity in enforcing the Mellett probe.

The trial, presiding a jury is obtained promptly, is not expected to take up more than two weeks. Floyd Streitenberger, ex-Canton detective, convicted of complicity in the crime, and now serving life in the state penitentiary, is expected to be the star witness for the state. According to present indications, it seems improbable that Louis Maser, Canton bootlegger, also serving time for complicity in the editor's murder, will appear at the trial, although there was some hint that he might be a defense witness.

The state will be represented by the same group of men who sent Patrick McDermott, Nanty Glo, Pa., Ben Mudner, Massillon, Streitenberger and Maser to prison for their part in the murder conspiracy, consisting of Prosecutor Henry W. Harter, Jr., Special Prosecutor C. H. McClintock, Assistant Prosecutor J. M. Aungst, and Detective Ora Slater.

Judge Frank W. Clevenger of Wilmington will be on the bench.

Defense attorneys are F. Rollin Hahn, W. Bernard Rodgers and K. W. Powell, the latter a former chief of police at Youngstown. Hahn is also from Youngstown, while Rodgers is a Canton attorney.

A special list of 36 jurors has been called for the trial. It is anticipated that the venire will be exhausted sometime during the second day and it will be necessary to issue a special panel.

[illegible] FARMER HEAD AND BROTHER BADLY HURT

Result of Fist Fight Near Proctorsville; Murder Charge To Be Filed

Ironton, July 11—Theodore Roberts, 60, farmer, is dead today and Bert Roberts, his brother, is suffering from serious injuries, due to a fist fight, it was stated, which took place Sunday afternoon on Guyan Creek, four miles from Proctorsville, near here. Sheriff John T. White announced that Roy Ellis, held in the county jail, admitted assaulting the Roberts brothers who lived together.

Authorities declared that a charge of murder will probably be filed against Ellis and that, in the event Bert Roberts dies, the second similar accusation will be filed.

A brawl is said to have resulted from an argument, participated in by Ellis and the Roberts brothers, over testimony given in the recent trial of several men accused of murdering Robert Ellis, a brother of Roy. The Roberts brothers testified for the state against the Ellises.

After the fight, officials declared, Ellis walked away, leaving the Roberts brothers lying in the road, where, some hours later, the lifeless body of Theodore was found. Bert, in a serious condition, was nearby.

PERSONAL PROPERTY OF PLANT TO SELL FIRST

Sale Will Be First Step in Liquidation of Marion Packing Co.

Appraisal and sale of personal property of the Marion Packing Co. will be the first step in liquidation of the affairs of the company, which was placed in the hands of a receiver Saturday as the result of action brought in the court of common pleas. Henry B. Hane, appointed as receiver, is now in charge of the company's affairs and is making preliminary arrangements for liquidation.

The first property to be disposed of is the large stock of meats and other food supplies at the plant west of the city. The preliminary appraisal shows that these supplies now on hand are valued at approximately $80,000. Some is ready for marketing and a large part of the rest is in the process of curing.

The plan will be to dispose of all perishable stock at as early a date as possible.

An order of appraisal and sale is expected to be issued in common pleas court early this week.

It is regarded as practically certain that the packing plant will finally be taken over and operated by a concern from outside the city.

FUNERAL PROCESSIONS

We have evolved what we consider to be the best method of taking care of the cars in funeral processions in the traffic zone of the city.

When cars in a funeral procession approach traffic notes let each driver turn his lights on.

This is far more simple than cards or stickers on the windshield and it is absolutely effective in traffic.

This is the method we use for all funeral cars.

IRISH SEARCH FOR SLAYERS OF O'HIGGINS

Vice President and Foreign Minister of Free State Shot Down

Dublin, July 11 — A countrywide search was under way through Ireland today for the assassins of Kevin O'Higgins, vice president and foreign minister of the Irish free state, who was shot to death yesterday when walking from his home to mass at Black Rock near Dublin.

The three assassins who occupied the automobile escaped.

The Irish police have been stopping all motor cars that might lead to clews.

Five Men Involved

Dublin was in a fever of excitement today. Special arrangements were made to guard the other ministers of the Irish free state government. Fears were felt that they might strike again at any moment.

An official account of the assassination in the morning papers today showed that five men were involved. The motor car which they occupied had been stolen on Saturday night in Dublin.

Two of the men acted as "look-out" while the other three did the actual shooting.

After he had been shot O'Higgins ran across the roadway and fell upon the sidewalk. The three men who had shot him down turned away assuming that he was dead. O'Higgins raised his hand slightly and the three murderers ran back and fired another shot into his body to make sure of death. Then they re-entered their stolen automobile and sped away. Later the car was abandoned and the police recovered it.

Forgives His Murderers

General O'Duffy, commander of the Irish Civic Guard, had the last interview with O'Higgins before his death. O'Higgins' last words to O'Duffy were: "I am dying. Goodbye. We have done good work in the past. I hope it is continued on the same lines in the future.

"I forgive my murderers."

O'Higgins then directed that a message be sent to his wife.

FILM STARS FACE SALARY CUT

Pity the poor movie star! Producers have decided fabulous salaries must cease and there is consternation in filmdom. However, there are four actresses who remain unworried by the decision of the Motion Picture Producers' Association to cut the salaries of everyone connected with the screen in an effort to put the films on a sounder economic basis. Colleen Moore, left above, Dolores Del Rio, right above, Pola Negri, left below and Bebe Daniels aren't worried over the edict, for they are sufficiently wealthy to be in a position to leave their organizations rather than accept a cut in salary.

COLUMBUS-SANDUSKY-RD GRADING WORK STARTED

Grover C. Snyder, Division Highway Engineer, in Charge of Improvement

Grading of the Columbus-Sandusky-rd, about four miles east of the city, officially designated as I. C. H. No. 4, has been started under supervision of Grover C. Snyder, division engineer of the state highway department, and completion of the improvement is expected within the next few days.

Placing of stone will probably be under way in about 10 days, Snyder stated today.

The highway is being improved with traffic bound surfacing and when the work is completed will provide a first class thoroughfare from Waldo to the Crawford county line, a distance of about 12 miles. The southern section of the road was built last year.

Traffic bound construction does not necessitate closing of the road, which will remain open during progress of the work, Snyder said.

The Harding Memorial section of the Marion-Delaware-rd is also scheduled for completion soon, the division engineer stated. The base of the memorial drive was completed more than a week ago and the asphalt surfacing will be installed some time this week, according to present plans. The asphalt work is to be done by the H. P. Streicher Co. of Toledo, which has its plant here in readiness to start at any time. The Streicher Co. will also do considerably asphalt work for the city street repair department.

SAPIRO ADMITS LIBEL SUIT TO BE WITHDRAWN

"Co-Operatvie King" Says He Has No Desire To Cause Ford Embarrassment

Chicago, July 11—Aaron Sapiro, just back from an extended business trip into Canada, practically admitted today that his $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford will be withdrawn.

Mr. Sapiro was asked this question: "What effect will Mr. Ford's public apology for the anti-Semitic policy of the Dearborn Independent have upon the retrial of your suit?"

Mr. Sapiro replied:

"I certainly have no desire to cause Mr. Ford any embarrassment whatsoever and I mean that to apply from 'all standpoints.' I have faith in Mr. Ford's sense of justice, and I believe, now that he has been informed of the scope, purpose and accomplishments of co-operative marketing, he will indorse it because he will know it is sound in principle.

"It took a tremendous amount of courage for Mr. Ford to make his retraction. It shows that fundamentally he wants to do what is right. I think his statement removes much of the sting of the Independent's policy in the past six years."

Unaware of Articles

Mr. Sapiro said the negotiations for an out-of-court settlement were in charge of William Gallagher, his Detroit attorney, and as he (Sapiro) had been away for some time he does not know their present status.

"It is my sincere belief Mr. Ford did not know just what his own people were doing," said Mr. Sapiro. "That was the reason I considered it vitally important to have Mr. Ford go on the stand in my suit—just to bring out the point that he wasn't aware of the articles. His retraction accomplishes that. It demonstrates his integrity of character. He courageously repudiated things done in his own name."

GIVEN SUSPENDED TERM IN DAYTON WORKHOUSE

The sentence was suspended on condition that he pay $7.50 a week toward the support of his minor child. Behind the Screen

Here is a new picture of the little lady, Mary Brian, who came into prominence in "Peter Pan". Ever since her success in that picture she has been much sought and has played in many pictures. Her last appearance was opposite Richard Dix in "Knockout Reilly."

GLORIA SWANSON drew a long breath of relief when the last obstacles in the path of the filming of "Sadie Thompson," based on the stage play, "Rain," were removed and the making of the picture that has encountered so much opposition and reformation again has been getting under way.

Only recently Will Hays, dictator of the movies, decided that "Rain" was impossible for screening and issued a ban against it. But effort was exerted toward winning his consent. Sadie herself will have to reform a good deal before she will be put on the screen and as to the missionary, he will be made a real reformer in the picture. Lionel Barrymore is playing this part and it looks as if his reforming of Sadie will be a rather easy task.

The whole story one gathers, is white-washed lavishly and those who have seen the play will probably never recognize it and those that have not seen it, will not know the difference. The change of the title is the first indication that there will probably be little semblance between the two versions of the play.

The salary cuts announced by motion picture leaders have occupied much space lately in the daily newspapers and caused speculation and rebellion in the movie colony. But it is by no means settled.

The Actors' Equity Association is looming up as a factor in the salary war between motion picture producers and film players. Many of the players are members of the Association and their attitude is rather defiant.

An extension of a month has been granted in which time the people interested in salary cuts are to get together and invent other means by which expenses in production of pictures can be reduced at the same time putting the industry on a sounder financial basis.

King Vidor who made "The Big Parade" has been chosen by Metro-Goldwyn to direct "The Big Ditch." The story written by Laurence Stallings is concerned with the digging of the Panama Canal.

It has been definitely decided that Virginia Lee Corbin, youthful actress who just a few years ago appeared on the screen as a child actress will play opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Drop Kick," a picture based on college life.

Reginald Denny's picture, "Fast and Furious," is now ready for release. The picture in itself is a plea for saner driving, at the same time showing some thrilling scenes of auto racing.

Henry Irving Dodge, author of the stage play, "Counsel for the Defense," in visiting the studios to assist in the screen version of his play, now renamed, "The Thirteenth Juror." Anna Q. Nilsson and Francis X. Bushman are in the leading roles.

"The Way of All Flesh," Emil Jannings' first American-made film, has been finished. It is a simple story of a methodical middle-west bank cashier of German descent, who goes "the way of all flesh." It is being shown in New York.

Lois Wilson walked out on a Cecil B. DeMille contract, not caring for a role he offered her. She has been placed under contract with Columbia pictures to play the feminine lead opposite Bert Lytell in "Alias the Lone Wolf," a sequel to "The Lone Wolf," Lytell's latest picture.

John Barrymore has signed Greta Nissen as leading lady for his picture, "Tempest." Miss Nissen will play the role of a Russian aristocrat. Vladimir Dantchenko of the Moscow Art theater wrote the play.

Johnny Hines has signed a contract with Famous Players, giving him the film rights to "The Girl Friend." The picture will be adapted from his musical comedy of last season.

FARMER'S WIFE GIVES TIP IN AUTO ROBBERY

Woman Near Orville Responsible for Arrest of Trio Who Stole Car Here

A farmer's wife living near Orville on last Saturday morning was busy with her usual Saturday morning work, when her attention was suddenly attracted by three young men in a Hudson coach parked along the road. The men were watching her husband at work in a field nearby.

After a half hour the young men still were parked along the road. Her suspicions became aroused and she notified the sheriff at Wooster. When the sheriff arrived a short time later the young men were still entertaining themselves by watching the farmer at work in the field. Their rather vague answers to the questions of the sheriff resulted in their being taken to Orville where they later told the sheriff that they had stolen the Hudson coach in which they had been riding, near Galion.

Stole Car Here, Claim

They also told the sheriff that they had stolen a Hudson touring car at Marion which they had abandoned east of Galion when they discovered a Hudson coach parked along the road. They said they had siphoned three gallon of gasoline from the tank of the touring car which they transferred to the coach and that they also transferred the license plates from the touring car to the coach.

The police here were notified and Saturday afternoon Chief of Police Thompson with Ross Corn, owner of the Hudson touring car taken by the three Friday night, drove to Orville and brought the men back to this city. The Corn car was found near Galion at the place where the three said they had abandoned it.

The men were booked at police headquarters as Joseph McDonald, 18, William Schmalz, 18, and George Weyant, all of Pittsburgh. McDonald told the police they had arrived in this city Friday and had taken the Corn car from on Oak-st late Friday night as a means of getting to their home in Pittsburgh. He said they had stopped along the road near Orville to rest.

New York, July 11—Fear that two [illegible] may have met a fate [illegible] of Mrs. Sarah Elisabeth [illegible] and Mrs Alfred Bennett, who were [illegible] and their bodies hacked [illegible] the cellar of a Brooklyn [illegible] this afternoon when two [illegible] of evidence were presented [illegible]

Mrs. Bennett's [illegible] been recovered, but she [illegible] an 45 years of age, and this [illegible] the younger woman's head [illegible] believe that another brutal [illegible] and dismemberment had oc[illegible]

Mrs. De Martino said she had not reported her daughter's disappearance because she feared publicity. [illegible] immediately started another search of the cellar where parts of the bodies of Mrs. Brownall and Mrs. Bennett were discovered.

The De Martino girl lived in the same house as Mrs Bennett, the mother of five children, who was one of the murdered women.

The woman's head was found by garbage workers. It was wrapped in a paper bag which had broken open when the grotesque package apparently had been hurled over the wall of the yards.

Contends Innocence

Irving Lee a former seaman, who is being held in connection with the crimes stuck to his contention of innocence during a cross-examination today. He admitted he had quarreled with Mrs. Brownall, by whom he was employed as janitor, but persisted in his denial of the murders.

In a room in the basement of the murder house, according to police, [illegible] stained rags, two saws and a knife axe were found. Police believe these weapons were used to dismember bodies of the murdered women. Parts of the corpses were then distributed over a wide area, some of them being secreted in the bushes of a churchyard [illegible] blocks away, and one pair of dismembered legs having been left in a hallway in the park adjoining the latter.

A MILLION IN JEWELS IS THEIR TREASURE

Parisian actresses are noted as collectors of jewelry. France imposes no duty on the importation of gems. Five stars of the French stage are said to possess jewels among them, the aggregate value of which is approximately a million dollars. Mlle. Yvonne Negre, one of the five goes in for emeralds. Above, she is wearing a huge pendant and an exquisite emerald setting in one of her bracelets; Mlle. Arlette Serry, the "Pearl Queen" of Paris, is wearing some of her famous pearls; Mlle. Alexandresco displays a part of her collection of pearls and diamonds; Mme. Philippeau is noted for her matched pearl bracelets, eardrops and rings; one of these five women is an American dancer, Miss Florence Walton, who has a penchant for pearls and diamonds.

AUTO ACCIDENT BASIS OF SUIT FOR DAMAGES

J. A. Rensch Brings Action Claiming $2,300 Against William Tharp

An automobile collision which occurred on the Bucyrus-rd, about four and a half miles north of Marion, the night of May 29 of this year, is the basis of a suit for $2,300 brought in the court of common pleas today against William Tharp.

The plaintiff is J. A. Rensch, who alleges that as the result of the collision his Hupmobile touring car was completely wrecked and he suffered injuries from which he is still in a dangerous condition.

Rensch charges that a Hudson sedan, owned and driven by Tharp, crashed into the rear of his Hupmobile while travelling at the rate of 50 miles an hour. The Rensch car went into the ditch and was demolished, the petition states.

Rensch says that his right leg was badly lacerated and that a piece of steel was driven into his left hand, causing infection which continues to cause him pain and otherwise impair his health.

The plaintiff places the value of his automobile at $800 and he asks judgment for this amount in addition to $2,000 for injuries.

His attorneys are Cable & Cable, of Lima, and Carhart & Warner, of this city.

$500 Suit Filed

E. E. Nash and the Watts-Kimbler Motor Co. are defendants in a suit for $500 brought in the court of common pleas today by Emma K. Aikin, guardian of William J. Koch, in which the defendants are charged with defrauding Koch in an automobile transaction.

The guardian says that she furnished her ward with a sports model Ford car, valued at $500 and that the defendants conspired to cheat and defraud Koch by inducing him to trade the Ford on a 1923 Lincoln touring car worth less than $800 but for which Koch contracted to pay $1,500. The Ford was applied on the $1,900 account and the defendants retained a lien for the balance, the petition says.

Nash, it is alleged, retained title to the Lincoln and when Koch stopped payments it was turned over to the Watts-Kimble Co.

Dow Aikin and Donithen & Donithen are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Files Answers

The Fahey Banking Co. filed its answer and cross petition today in suit brought by the Marion National Bank against Caroline Blackson and others, in which the plaintiff asked for sale of property to pay a judgment of $3,119.54.

In its answer, filed through Attorney W. N. Harder, the Fahey bank sets up a claim of $236 on a first mortgage. The property involved in the action is described as lot No. 2293 in the Mechanics addition to the city of Marion.

Charges Neglect, Cruelty

Gross neglect and extreme cruelty are charged by Clarence E. Beck, an Erie railroad brakeman, in a suit for divorce filed in the court of common pleas today against Grace Beck.

They were married in Covington, Ky., on Feb. 22, 1921, and have no children. The petition states that they lived together until March 19, 1925, when Beck left his wife because of her alleged objectionable conduct. He says that she was arrested twice on charges filed in police court.

The husband alleges that while they lived together he was forced to cook his own meals and do other household work. Mrs. Beck, he states, was quarrelsome and nagged him continually.

The plaintiff is represented by Mouser, Young & Mouser.

YEELLOW SPRINGS MAN ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

T. F. Laist, Antioch College Department Head, Tells of Lumbermen's Plans

The expenditure of $500,000,000 during the next five years to finance a campaign of education for the proper use of lumber, are the plans of the National Association of Lumbermen according to T. F. Laist, director of research in lumber retailing of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, who spoke to the members of the Rotary Club at their luncheon at Hotel Harding at noon today.

The greater part of the money will be spent in research work, according to the speaker, and this will include a study of how to eliminate waste, the use of waste material and a campaign of education in the uses of wood which are now but little known.

Chief Example

As an example of the latter the speaker cited a recent announcement by the department of research to the effect that wood when properly treated, had a greater fire resistance than steel. Wood covered by metal lath and three coats of gypsum plaster resisted a temperature of 1800 degrees for one hour and a quarter the speaker said.

The speaker also cited the recent announcement that lumber waste was now being reduced to a soft fiberous mass by shooting it from guns under a high steam pressure, as one of the accomplishments of the research work. The soft mass can be compressed into boards for use as panels or as a base for veneering.

Should the campaign of education as now being planned by the association accomplish its purpose it will result in a saving in the United States each year of approximately $100,000,000 according to Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the speaker pointed out.

POLICE SEEK FASHIONABLY DRESSED HOBO

Youthful Tramp Replenishes Frayed Wardrobe in Marion County Home

Police in northern Ohio are aiding today in the search for a youthful hobo who burglarized a Marion County home Sunday and equipped himself as a shining light in the tattered ranks of his profession by replenishing his frayed wardrobe with kid gloves, silk socks, new shoes, a plaid cap and other wearing apparel.

In the event that he has donned the fashionable, toggery which constituted the major part of his loot it is thought that the decorations may lead to his capture.

Robs Solomon Home.

The tramp made his haul about 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of Charles G. Solomon, a short distance south of Prospect, while Mr. and Mrs. Solomon were on a motor trip to Richwood. On their arrival home they found the place ransacked from top to bottom, drawers of dressers and tables having been opened and contents strewn over the floor.

When Mr. and Mrs. Solomon drove away early Sunday morning they had noticed a tramp, probably 25 years of age walking along the Hocking Valley Railway near their home. Upon finding that the house had been entered they immediately suspected the unkempt stranger.

Sheriff Notified

Sheriff Deal was notified and informed that the burglar had probably boarded a freight train going north on the Hocking Valley. Deal and his deputies, George W. Deal and Vane Ireland, went to the Hocking Valley yards but arrived about 20 minutes too late. The freight train had passed Marion. Men working in the yards informed the sheriff, however, that they had seen a tramp answering to the description of the burglary suspect.

Messages were then sent to points north of here and officers boarded the train at Fostoria. They found an open car in which the tramp had been riding and where he had changed shoes, putting on the pair taken at the Solomon home and leaving his old ones.

Continue Search

From there no trace of the newly attired wanderer could be found. Officers in the vicinity of Fostoria are continuing the search, however, and believe that the kid gloves, silken hosiery and other finery may lead them to their man.

In addition to the gloves, shoes, socks and cap, the burglar made way with a 32-caliber automatic revolver, a sweater and a gold band ring. All were the property of Mr. Solomon with the exception of the ring, which was a prized possession of his wife.

The burglar effected entrance to the home by prying open a window. In leaving he abandoned his old hat and a pair of well-worn gloves, which were found on the premises.

JOHN HOWE ARRESTED

A charge of intoxication was placed against John Howe, 237 Patterson-st, who was arrested early Saturday night at his home. He is being held at police headquarters for investigation.

TAKEN HOME

Mrs. E. A. Baker was removed from City Hospital to her home, Pearl-st, Saturday in the M. H. Gunder invalid car. Mrs. Baker underwent an operation for appendicitis while at the hospital.

DR. B. L. GEORGE GIVES SERMON AT UNION RITES

"Consider the Lilies" Topic of Discourse at Calvary Evangelical Church

"Consider the Lilies" an interesting sermon based on Matthew 6:28, 29, "Consider the lilies of the field how they grow; they toil not neither do they spin. I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these," was given by Dr. B. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church at the second of a series of 10 union church services last night at Calvary Evangelical Church. The church auditorium and balconies were well-filled.

"Jesus' life was so filled with momentous happenings and marked with tragedy that we often forget how really human He was," Dr. George said in part, "He was no recluse but mixed with the people in all life's relations, there never having lived a more human personage the more so because He was Divine. Wherever Jesus went He added somewhat to the place and occasion as well as deriving great profit therefrom. He was like the honeybee extracting the honey of life but never the poison and all the while fertilizing and conferring new interest and meaning to all.

Dr George dwelt at length on Christ's interest in all phases of life, his familiarity with the business, political, agricultural, professional fields and His power to illustrate His teachings from such life.

Loved Outdoors

"Christ loved the great out-of-doors of God, while Paul was a man of the city. When He called His disciples He conducted them into the fields where all manner of life ran riot and advised them to consider the lilies of the field, how they toil not neither do they spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of them.

"It is fine to get away from the city into the open life of the country where probably all of the great doctrines of the scriptures are dimly outlined in nature," Dr. George declared. "Even the cross of Christ has its foreglean in the ways of nature, wherein life comes about ever by processes of death, as the soil, gleaning its life from the decay of plant, rock and once living matter.

Quotes Tennyson

"Tennyson observing a flower in crannied wall exclaimed, "Little flower if I could understand what you are, root and all in all I should know what God and Man is. Lilies are things of beauty and fragrance, exhaling sweetness to all about them, as should we in our daily lives.

"What has become of the natural simplicities of life and of any so-called type of civilization that will rob the child and nature's beauties of their real and innate glories in the interest of the almighty dollar? Consider the lilies of the field, said the Master," Dr. George said in closing.

Two beautiful anthems were sung by the Evangelical Church choir with L. R. Hudson, choir leader, directing and Miss J. W. Fisher, church organist, playing the accompaniments. Rev. George E. Brown, pastor of Union and Epworth Church offered the opening prayer. Dr. U. S. Hoyt, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, the closing [illegible] Rev. One Auto to Every Five Persons.

The total number of motor cars in use in the world on January 1 of the present year was 27,650,287, or one to every group of sixty-five persons outside of the United States. Of this total, 22,127,334 were American registered cars, which means that, at the beginning of the present year, there was one car to every five persons in America.

These figures have just been given out by Irving H. Taylor, head of the automotive division of the department of commerce.

Mr. Taylor's figures carry a number of surprises. Naturally we would expect Canada to rank second to our own country in proportion of automobiles to population, but it is forced to share that position with Hawaii, each having an automobile to every eleven persons. And then come a string of surprises. New Zealand ranks third with one to every twelve. Denmark and Australia are tied for fourth place with one to seventeen. The United Kingdom has one to forty-three; Argentina, one to every forty-five, and France, one to every forty-six persons. The Dutch East Indies registrations show a car to every 1,035 persons; Japan has one to every 1,393 and India comes at the foot of the list with one car to every 3,193 inhabitants.

American cars showed approximately 100 per cent, strong in the registrations of Alaska, American Samoa, Bolivia, Canada, Dominican republic, Dutch Guinea, Haiti, Hawaii, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Porto Rico and the Virgin islands, and ninety-five per cent. of all the cars in operation the world over were American made or of American origin, having been manufactured here or in American-owned factories in Canada, or assembled in foreign branches of these factories. The American automobile industry has developed a fine foreign field for its wares. Throughout the world it is handled with great success save in Italy where but two per cent. of the cars registered are of American make. There are two reasons for the Italian showing. One is that Italy makes a wonderfully good car at a wonderfully reasonable figure. The other is Mussolini. The Italian premier as a protector of home industries has our protective tariff beaten to a frazzle.

Now a question. If American automobiles can make the impression they have in the foreign field, why can not other American manufactures? Is the difference due to the marvelous advertising and selling programs the American automobile industry has developed?

An Air Passenger Service.

The United States consul in Berlin has transmitted to the department of commerce in Washington statistics just made public by the Lufthansa, Germany's state subsidized air transportation company, which demonstrate the marked difference between the lines of development of aeroplaning in Germany and here at home in America.

With the exception of our air mail service, occasional exploits like the tour of our good will flyers and Henry Ford's air fleet flight, our development of aeroplaning has been either military or along the line of individual performance, and such performance has been largely by government employes or others working indirectly for the government. We have achieved many individual records. The list is a long one, notable among them being the flight to the North pole and return, the time record aloft, the record from New York to Paris, the record to Germany, since possibly beaten by the distance traveled by the America and the over-water record from Oakland to Honolulu. All of these have been single exploits, feats by aviators in individual machines.

On the other hand, Germany has devoted her energies to the construction of a great fleet of aeroplanes for the transportation of passengers and mail. The Lufthansa alone has 200 planes which travel 46,000 miles daily. The traffic superplanes, which carry up to twelve persons including the pilot and mechanic, have an average wing-spread of from eighty-five to 100 feet. They are driven by three separate engines capable of developing 700 horsepower in the aggregate, and have an average speed of about 100 miles an hour. Last year they covered seventy airports, carrying over 93,000 passengers with a total flying mileage of 3,822,500. In addition to this the superplanes carried about 7,000 pounds of mail monthly. Huge quantities of mail, chiefly newspapers, also were carried to all parts of Germany by smaller planes belonging to the company. This year the company has added twenty airports to its field located in eighteen countries outside of Germany.

Possibly the impetus given aeroplaning in this country by the notable flights made by American machines may lead to the speedy development of air passenger transportation been the great cities of our land. Thus far, however, thought seems to have centered on the development of a transatlantic service. Even those most enthusiastic for the development of such a service freely admit that it is some years away. The ablest aviators and aeronautical experts put it at least ten years in the future, and one very eminent authority stated within the past ten days that the chances against a successful transatlantic flight over an accurate course and with a safe landing are a thousand to one.

Assuming that transatlantic passenger service is a decade away; that there must be much experimentation and development before it can be operated in comparative safety; it seems to us that the interim may well be employed in the development of an air passenger service here at home such as that of Germany and other European countries operate. The flights demanded by such a service are comparatively short and thus the weight-of-fuel proposition would not obtrude as it does in flights across the Atlantic. The atmospheric conditions ahead would be better known. The danger of fog and frost and ice, the greatest that face the aeroplane at sea, would be reduced to a minimum. In fact, all the problems of such a service are known. It would not be experimental so far as operation is concerned.

In a word, why not less attention to and effort toward the development of a transatlantic passenger service and more attention to and effort toward an air passenger service throughout our home land?

An exchange urges us "not to judge a man by the fact that he mows his lawn." Sure not. The time to judge him is when he doesn't mow his lawn.

There have been many strikes which have caused hardship, but we can not think of any of such potentialities for heart-breaks as that of the gasolene attendants up in Chicago, short as it was.

At times we are inclined to feel that a president who kept in mind the dignity of his high office and refused to dress up in this costume or that, largely to meet the desires of press photographers, would be playing just as good politics and hold just as firmly the place he had made in the esteem of the public.

Cake fifty years old was served at the celebration of a golden wedding out in Tacoma at which many who were in attendance at the wedding of the couple were present. That's no way to treat old friends, especially old friends with store teeth.

We do not wish to be in the position of wishing any one ill-luck, but, if the French can send an aeroplane over to us before the Columbia can be tuned up for the return trip, it will be decidedly pleasing to a lot of true sportsmen in America who can see nothing sporting in hiring away the pilot of a competitor for aviation honors about ready to hop off.

The Japanese bankers and industrialists over here to study our industrial and banking methods are amazed at American enterprise and initiative. They come from the North and the South from the East and the West and the story is ever the same.

Public esteem for John D. Rockefeller has changed mightily in the last two decades. We were told recently that he had attended church for the first time in months, and not a single paragrapher offered a surmise as to whether his attendance was due to the fact that his golf game was going good or going bad.

The manner in which the Chicago papers are pointing to the fact that the Great lake levels are rising, despite the fact that she is draining off 10,600 cubic feet of water a second, might be taken to indicate a feeling on her part that she is deserving of credit for not having permitted the lakes to overflow during the extremely rainy spring and early summer we have experienced.

RID OF HER AT LAST!

Sickness Loses Month a Year.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A few days ago I read a surprising statement made by Dr. John M. Graves, chairman of the hospital betterment committee of the League for Conservation of Public Health. At a convention held recently in San Francisco he said that 8,000,000 persons in the United States are seriously ill every day.

This figure is almost unbelievable. Let us consider what it means. It tells us that one-fifteenth of our population is sick all of the time—that the "average" man is incapacitated for work almost a month out of every year!

This state of affairs is not alone a matter of interest to the individuals whose health and personal happiness are at stake. It is a matter of vital concern to us all in its bearing on our national welfare and prosperity. The estimated loss to American industry through absences from work caused by preventable disease, according to Dr. Graves, amounts to $1,800,000,000 annually.

This, you will agree, is a sum worth saving. It should interest even those persons who think that the sole purpose of government is to protect property. For my part, I dispute this idea—government should have wider and more humanitarian aims than that—but from this point of view as well as from every other, it is the duty of those in authority to take action in the matter. Government and science must work hand in hand to reduce the toll of disease.

Much has been accomplished in the past decades in preventive work. We are proud of what scientific research has discovered and public health education has taught about how disease is transmitted and how contagion can be controlled. Vaccines, antitoxins, and serums have been developed to combat some of the most dreaded forms of disease, and new discoveries are being made available to the public almost every day.

But the figures I have quoted show that there is much left to accomplish. Money must be provided to make possible further research work, improved facilities for the care of the sick, and the further education of the public in matters of health.

But what I want to impress upon you now is that a large part of the work of prevention must be done by individual effort. Doctors may discover and tell how to prevent disease, but their work will be of no avail unless you observe the rules of hygiene which they give you.

Fresh air, sunlight, good food, exercise, plenty of sleep in a well-ventilated room, cleanliness of body and soul—these are the simple things out of which the foundation of good health is built. If every citizen of the United States would give heed to these matters, we could soon effect an appreciable saving in the cost of disease to the individual and to the nation.

It may not be possible "by taking thought to add a cubit to your stature." There is no doubt, unless you were born to be hanged, that intelligent care given to the needs of the body can add years to your life. This is done, not only by increasing its actual span, but by eliminating the days wasted in sickness.

Poems That Live.

THE ELF AND THE DORMOUSE.

Under a toadstool
Crept a wee elf,
Out of the rain,
To shelter himself.

Under the toadstool,
Sound asleep,
Sat a big dormouse
All in a heap.

Trembled the wee elf,
Frightened, and yet
Fearing to fly away
Lest he get wet.

To the next shelter—
Maybe a mile!
Suddenly the wee elf
Smiled a wee smile.

Tugged till the toadstool
Toppled in two,
Holding it over him,
Gayly he flew.

Soon he was safe home
Dry as could be.
Soon woke the dormouse—
"Good gracious me!

"Where is my toadstool?"
Loud he lamented.
And that's how umbrellas
First were invented.

Editorial Comment.

MACHIAVELLI 400 YEARS AGO.

As a result of some of the recently published diaries, recollections and letters of the intimates of Queen Victoria it looks as if she might come to be regarded as less of a Victorian than any of her contemporaries. Much in the same way, in spite of the fact that Niccolo Machiavelli gave a name to a form of political roguery, the modern view is that he was less "machiavellian" than many of the politicians who lived in his day and before or since his time. Now, 400 years after his death in 1527, Machiavelli is recognized as the least understood man of the Renaissance. He has been regarded as the philosopher of tyranny, the adviser of tyrants, when he was really the original believer in a united Italy.

If the world used ingenuity since Machiavelli dropped out of human affairs, except in so far as he lived on in his books, it showed it in blundering into all sorts of mistakes about him and his opinions. Because he understood men high and low and in all ranks of life it was believed that Machiavelli was a sort of Mephistopheles, ready to lead astray all those who were willing to take his advice. Four hundred years is a long time for a reputation to wait for destruction of a myth. But the Florentine would not have cared, nor would he have done more than smile at the first English version of "The Prince," in which the translator admitted the danger of making such a book available for the innocent common people.—New York Sun.

THE WOLVERINE.

A good deal of regretful printer's ink was spilled in the Plain Dealer's birth year over the national government's decision to have the gunboat, Michigan, first iron vessel on the lakes, fabricated and launched at Erie instead of here. Her parts had been made at Pittsburgh. Cleveland, feeling her importance at the head of the Ohio canal system, blamed to politics the decision to send the plates to Erie.

All this is ancient history. The Michigan became the Wolverine, had a notable career as gunboat and training ship and this week was to have been sold for junk. Sentiment prevailed, however, and the vessel has been given to Erie for preservation as a historic memento. Thus the Pennsylvania city a victory over Cleveland eighty-five years ago bears new fruit. Had the Michigan been launched at the mouth of the Cuyahoga, the Wolverine might now be tied up here to spend a long retirement as a teacher of history to the people of northern Ohio.

Cleveland is pleased that the Wolverine has been spared the junk pile, even though Erie does become her custodian. It is too late to feel aggrieved over a decision as old as 1842.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HE SAW TOO MUCH.

"Be observing, my son," counseled Willie's father. "Cultivate the habit of seeing and you will become a successful man."

"Yes," added Willie's uncle. "Don't go through life like a blind man. Learn to use your eyes."

"Little boys who are observing get on much faster than those who are not," Aunt Jane put in.

The youngster took their advice to heart. A day passed and once more he stood before the family council.

"Well, my son," said his father, "have you been using your eyes?" Willie nodded. "Tell us what you've learned."

"Uncle Jim's got a bottle of whisky hid behind his trunk," said Willie. "Aunt Jane's got an extra set of false teeth in her dresser, and pa's got a deck of cards and a box of chips hid behind Emerson's essays in the bookcases."

"The little sneak," exclaimed the family with one voice."—Boston Transcript.

PRODIGIES THAT ARE NOT PRODIGIOUS

A four-year-old child from Honolulu has astonished Chicago music teachers by playing classical compositions on the piano better than many advanced students perform them. The case is actually extraordinary if the press dispatch is accurate; and yet not as extraordinary as a good many people may consider it. "Infant prodigies" in the world of music are so common that it is a question whether they really are prodigies at all. It is the rule rather than the exception to find exceptional musical talent developing very early in life, much earlier than most talent does; and the history of almost every great musician begins with an account of the wonderful things he or she did while still a young child. The same thing is true to a degree in the world of art, using the word in its restricted sense. Nor is it difficult to understand why. Both music and art are primitive human accomplishments depending more on instinct and emotion than on reason for their development.—Detroit Free Press.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Professor Michelson, world-famous scientist of Chicago university, makes fascinating experiments to find the exact speed of light. Rays of light are raced between revolving mirrors on mountain tops or shot through pipe lines. The knowledge of the universe is thus increased.

Fortunate for us, there are a few people more interested in racing light beams than in racing horses.

Between 150 and 200 millions of dollars were saved in the last five years in a large American city because of the use of arbitration in the building trades. Strikes have been prevented, work has gone on, the public has been protected.

Men can do wonders when they use their heads instead of their fighting muscles.

Roger Babson, nationally-known economist, has been telling preachers some things. He asks pastors to quit trying to compete with experts in other lines. Men and women go to church to worship, to get courage, wisdom, and above all, inspiration. Few of them want lectures or entertainment. There is better entertainment to be had outside the church—but the church can be made to give something that no entertainment can furnish.

A comet twelve times as large as the earth was rushing toward us at the rate of a million miles a day. If it struck the earth, imagine what its meteoric fragments and its deadly gases would do! But it has veered away. Soon it will be out of sight. It's a universe of order. Even comets stick to their paths. Law is supreme.

A flight from New York to Rome is announced for the near future. We can never quite revive the Lindbergh thrill. There is something sad about a world that is growing so nearly thrill-proof. Perhaps we can count on enough ingenuity to furnish at least one thrill a year.

It isn't ingenuity that is running out. It seems to be our capacity for being hard-boiled that is growing.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

DR. JOHN J. TIGERT.

Dr. John James Tigert, United States commissioner of education, was born at Nashville, Tennessee, February 11, 1882. For two years Dr Tigert was professor of philosophy at Central college, Missouri, 1907 to 1909. He became president of Kentucky Wesleyan college, Winchester, in the latter year, and in 1911 joined the staff of the University of Kentucky, first as professor of philosophy and later as professor of psychology. He has held his present position since 1921. He has held positions on many educational commissions and is the author of a large number of addresses and articles on the same subject.

Dr. Tigert sees the spread of cultural kinship and speaks of it thus.

"In the sphere of human relations, the adjustments are always more complex and more difficult to interpret than upon the material plane. Since the World war the desire to give more definite expression to our intellectual, spiritual and cultural kinship has exhibited itself among enlightened nations everywhere. The ultimate effect of this striving among the peoples of the world for a more definite cultural and social relationship can not now be easily forecast.

"At the moment, if we look to the Far East, to Europe or to the Americas, indications seem to point to the fact that we need not expect an international policy, or a cultural scheme to be evolved at the sacrifice of natural political units or cultural entities. Neighbors may and should be mutually helpful without neglect of the home. States and nations can very properly cultivate reciprocal understandings and community of culture and commerce without violence to national traditions and aspirations."

A New Idea In Merchandising Gasoline

Ours is a new method of merchandising gasoline. We sell direct from tank cars to consumers, eliminating the distributors' profit and avoiding the useless expense of operating and maintaining costly and elaborate stations such as dot the landscape everywhere as magnificent evidence of the excessive profits that have been taken.

The old system is costly, top-heavy and a constant source of unnecessary expense to motorists.

Our method of merchandising gasoline usually provokes a price war in an attempt to curtail our sales, as we can only operate at a profit by doing a large volume of business.

If other stations meet our price, after having charged higher prices for years, it proves that they have been over-charging motorists, or that they hope, by taking a loss for a short time, to reduce our sales and thus drive us out of business, when high prices can again be restored.

Here are the facts concerning the price of gasoline. The following wholesale prices are taken from the June 22 issue of the National Petroleum News, the leading trade paper of the oil industry:

56-58 Gasoline, 450 end point	6½c
58-60 U. S. Motor Gasoline, 437 end point	6⅝c
60-62 Gasoline, 400 end point	6¾c
64-66 Gasoline, 375 end point	7⅛c
68-70 Gasoline, 350 end point	7½c

58-60 U. S. Motor gasoline is now quoted at 6 5-8 to 7c F. O. B. group three, to this must be added freight of 3 1-2c and state tax of 3c, making delivered price at Marion about 13c. Wholesalers or distributors add 2c to 5c, and the dealer 3c, making the retail price 19c to 21c. We eliminate the distributor's overhead and profit and add 2c, making our price 15c.

There is only a difference of 1½ cents at present market prices between what is known as low test gasoline and high test gasoline.

Stations that charge high prices for high test gasoline take advantage of the motorist who believes that a high price gasoline is better than a low price gasoline.

We sell only 58-60 U. S. Motor Gasoline because we know it is the quality best suited for this season of the year.

High test has the only advantage of motor starting in extremely cold weather, and while we could sell you high test gasoline for 2 cents more than we are charging for U. S. Motor Gasoline, we do not sell it because we know high test gasoline will clog the motor and U. S. Motor Gasoline is the best and most high test gasoline has an advantage [illegible] and frequently results in [illegible] and [illegible]

MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Mich.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so tired I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is fifteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day." —Mrs. E. F. BASSETT, 216 South Hayford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is sold by druggists everywhere.

Recipes for New and Novel Dishes; Household Ideas and Suggestions

How does the following menu strike you as a start for a busy summer day as play or work? The prunes might be replaced by fresh fruit—melons, oranges (although the latter are not at their best at this season of the year), strawberries, cherries, etc. A glass of fresh currant, strawberry or raspberry jelly with the toast is always a delightful combination.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Coddled Eggs—Fill saucepan with water and bring to boil. Place eggs in water, being sure that they are completely covered. Cover and set at back of stove where water cannot boil and let stand just twice as long as for boiled eggs. A "three-minute" boiled egg will be a "six-minute" coddled egg. Serve with plenty of butter, pepper and salt.

Hard Cooked Eggs

To hardcook eggs, place in cold water, bring to boil, let stand thirty minutes, or place in boiling water and let stand an hour.

Two in One

How many of our readers have tried hemstitching with a crochet hook, instead of with a needle? In making dresser scarfs, or buffet sets, pull three or four threads through the material, far enough from the edge to allow for a rolled hem, and after rolling the hem, double crochet at intervals through the pulled threads, thus simultaneously doing the work of hemstitching and crocheting the edge. This edge may be used as the base for a picot, or more elaborate edge.

Substitute

In an emergency remember that two teaspoons cream of tartar and one scant teaspoon baking soda equal three teaspoons of baking powder.

Women's Silk Hosiery Whim Foster Delicate Machiner

Washington, July 11 — The American woman's demand for ever more form-fitting hosiery has taken the best minds in mechanical engineering by the ears and is about to corrupt a worthy national slogan to the mere truism that "Necessity is the mother of insanity."

An American Federation of Labor survey of the fashioned hose industry reveals that knitting machines employed in the production of trick styles in hose already have more than 50,000 parts, and the demand "for more loveliness," as the trade says, grows apace.

Two years ago milady was delighted with an ordinary sock with a black heel. Ten thousand parts were added for that. Soon an adventuresome entrepeneur conceived the idea of French knots.

Thousands of Parts

That called for several thousands more parts. Six months later, a Philadelphia firm put out some zippy hose with "stop and go" signals manned by blue-coated policemen with brilliant red caps—just below the fashioned knee, whereat the mechanical engineers said 40,000 parts was the absolute limit.

Last spring the wholesale trade completed a nation-wide survey which demonstrated conclusively that there four general types of femine legs, of which required special equipment. For one type, only 26,000 parts are required, but for those which cause automobile wrecks no less than 50,000 parts are needed.

"Short skirts have created a tremendously increased demand for fashioned and novelty hose," the Federation report said. "During 1923 the industry produced about 11,000,000 dozen. In 1926, the production was approximately 16,000,000 dozen pairs. New mills are springing up all over the country so fast that no one can keep track of production.

Delicate Mechanism

"The machinery is probably the most complicated and delicate piece of mechanism now in use in the American industrial establishment. It has more than 50,000 parts, and all must be perfectly co-ordinated any seconds, for the slightest defect mars the product. The adjustment of the machine is so delicate that a sudden change in atmosphere may throw it out of adjustment. The unit of temperature in the shops must be carefully regulated."

Changes in styles, which come often in the industry almost over night, sometimes require the complete rebuilding of a plant's equipment.

A three-deck printing press prints about 30,000 parts, not including the type.

CHAPTER FIFTY-THREE

Now shouting, running forms were upon him and he and Benna joined in the turmoil, adding their amazed shouts to the din. None of the soldiers gave the slightest heed, suspecting, of course, that here was merely two more of their own number. After a half hour, in which the armed host finally realized the Temple had been wrecked, Larry heard the welfare sound a summons to a council and he saw Abd el-Bachir, the real Marabout of Adrar, preparing to address his men. He cautioned Benna to silence, then led the way to the inner ring of warriors and listened to the harangue:

"The Temple has been shattered, and may Allah vouchsafe that the wizard died in the wreckage, else may Allah wither his bones and feed them to the jackals. The Sheikh Tahar el-Hassan, whom men also know as Omar ben Medjad, a shopkeeper and spy of the Spaniards from Ab Dukkar, is beaten with all his men, may Allah curse them for traitors. Let each kaid, whether of a hundred or a thousand, now assemble his men. We march on Duk el-Abda. Today, this hour, this minute, Children of the Faith, begins a great event!"

Larry heard fanatical huzzas sweep over the army, then the marabout's voice came again:

"We are about to launch a campaign of blood that will free Moslem from infidel rule. Our goal on the first move is the walled city of the mountains that I have named Duk el-Abda. Before we reach it, I swear by the name of Allah, that the jeweled diadem shall be restored to you. Forward, then, to victory!"

Larry and Benna found themselves falling in line with those about them, then a kaid ordered them to fall back among the men of the sabers. Here they found they were in the company of those armed much after the manner of themselves, either with short, heavy sabers or long Moorish swords, slender, but strong. Tramping feet and the jangling of the gheyyats fell on their ears, neffars sounded silvery calls, and the movement—open rebellion—was under way.

Over the crest of the slope, down into the valley the way led and when evening fell across the gloomy, forbidding reaches of the barren mountains, the marchers were well along the Forbidden Road, heading back along the very course that Larry and Benna had trod in their search for the Temple.

As they went forward, Larry caught with pleasure in his heart signs aplenty that Omar and his army had preceded them, for soon they came to smoking huts of holy men and hermits; town that had been sacked and fired—all bespeaking the painstaking efforts of the Swords of the South to spread terror through the country of marabout power.

Holy men, who were the lesser marabouts, were constantly stirring about through the ranks of the moving army, their shrill, fanatical voices urging all bearers to greater effort; shouting vainglorious promises of the great victory that was to come with the surprise attack on Duk el-Abda.

Camp was established just before the time of prayer after dark. At dawn, after the fedjr, there was a meager breakfast and the march was resumed. In the evening they reached the karia at the entrance to the valley. It had a desolate appearance, quite unlike what it had been when Larry had faced the Gate of the Burning, and it was clear that it recently had been the prey of flames.

"By Allah, the Sheikh Tahar el-Hassan has sacked the place," Larry heard a voice exclaim.

There was plenty to indicate that the fellow spoke truly. Larry and Benna found themselves in a detachment that was ordered to enter the walls of the place and see if any life remained there. As they walked through the now open and wrecked Gate of the Burning, he felt sorry that Benna's eyes should be called upon to witness the scene that greeted them inside.

Dead bodies lay everywhere and little gusts of smoke came from what had been the fortress, like a thin mist rising over the sea before the fog comes down. The place was an indescribable wreck. No windows or doors remained and every vestige of woodwork had been burned. Truly, Omar ben Medjad's men had done their work well, these Swords of the South whom he commanded. After a time the kaid in charge of their detachment ordered a retreat and after rejoining their comrades they waited until the captain had made his report to the Marabout of Adrar and his khalifas, after which the march was resumed.

Larry found his mind doodling ostentatiously on escape. He realized that things were rapidly nearing a climax where the end of all this turmoil must be reached. The diadem was in Omar's possession and he, no doubt, already had messengers summoning the Spanish to meet the advance of this fanatical host. A mighty movement was definitely underway and of a certainty a battle was impending. On its outcome depended without doubt the future of affairs in Morocco.

He had now fulfilled his mission here to the last letter and there seemed to remain little or nothing that he could do further. It was now clearly up to Omar and up to Spain to throttle this menace here; it was up to them to check effectually this blot of misery that was sweeping out of the hills with the avowed intention of driving from the Moroccan plains the Spaniards and their cohorts. He longed with all the heart of him to get away from this motley horde of fanatics and, with Benna, make his way to the coast where many a goodly ship was to be had—one whose cutwater cleared the waves toward the west, with bowsprit pointed towards home; a ship that would bear them forever far away from all this turmoil and strife, this carnage and loot and fanatical superstitution.

But there was no escape possible—yet. A sullen suspicion was over the whole army. Men suspected neighbors in the ranks and the Marabout of Adrar seemed to suspect every man who followed him. He knew that if he and Benna should chance to be revealed in their true lights death would be their instant portions, so it behooved them to move with circumspection, and to be careful. Stolidly, after the manner of those about them, they plodded on, nor did Larry allow himself even the pleasure of conversation with Benna, save when necessity demanded. And Benna, grasping the situation and realizing the seriousness of their circumstances, fell with his lead, following it accurately, so that no breath of suspicion fell on them in one whit more or degree than it rested on their neighbor-marchers.

On past el Dhall the mountain of Shadows, the way led and finally, after three days, they were at the hut of a holy man, where the Forbidden Road turned toward a pass that would see it winding on through the hills to Duk el Abda. Between this point and the little walled city the pass was the hardest portion of all the road to traverse. Larry had a feeling that here, if anywhere, should be the place where the momentous crisis that was looming should actually burst into being.

If, as Larry suspected, Omar ben Medjad had instantly dispatched messengers to the Spaniards after ascertaining definitely that a great gathering of armed men was underway at the Temple, then the latter by now should at least be in Duk el-Abda, if not actually well beyond it and into the mountains. Calculating hurriedly, it was in his mind that the Spaniards, if they had moved with any degree of promptitude, might already be in the northern reaches of the pass itself—perhaps they had already taken up their position there and awaited the coming of this motley horde!

He heard a man in the ranks raise his voice in plaint.

"T was an ill day for Moslem and for all of us when the wizard set himself against the Group. Have not men said that he had promised to reveal a way in which we could overwhelm the Spaniards in the Pass? And does not this pass lie just ahead? And did not the Group, instead of learning the plan, depart themselves in such a manner that they not only failed to learn the plan, but brought about the wrecking of the Temple?"

"Bah, Zadi; it is also said that the wizard was a rogui, a pretender, who came among us to aid the infidel dogs of the plains through spying upon us and learning of our plans," another voice cried.

"Maybap it is said with truth, Ali, but just the same the wizard was a man of mighty powers. Did I not hear with my own ears that he caused the bugs to rain down on a certain lesser holy man who did spe the Marabout of Adrar on occasion? And did not this wizard change a piece of cloth into a baby osprey before the holy man's very eyes? Belike we have need of such power this blessed minute, Ali, for unless I am a fool, trouble lies not far ahead."

"But did we not start out to make this very trouble, Zadi?" the other voice asked. "Of a surety, trouble lies ahead, but the advantage is all ours. We are more than eight thousand. Think you that the Spaniards, who do not number more than three hundred, and their thousand or so Partisans can stand before us, O doubting one? Think you that we are any weaker than the Riff tribes who have battled the Spaniards for twenty long years and who are even now cunningly about to expel them from Morocco? Ah, Zadi, it is written in the hot sands of the desert and on the rocks of the hills that the True Believers shall never be conquered by the infidels. Our blow now will aid the Riffs."

Beans with that true "bean hole" flavor — produced until now only by the "bean hole" method of baking beans in an outdoor oven by logging-camp cooks in the north woods

Beans in pioneer days were most always baked in outdoor earthen ovens.

But now conditions of living made it either inconvenient or impossible for people to continue preparing them the outdoor way.

Only in Maine has the custom persisted between Maine people, particularly the housewives, cling to the tradition of preparing beans by the one method that develops the flavor of all baked bean flavors.

There beans are still baked in the outdoor oven called the "bean hole."

It may be truly said that genuine "bean hole" flavor has never been equalled until this creation by Van Camp.

Try this wonderful new product that reproduces this baked-in-the-ground, smoked-out-of-doors flavor in baked beans and you will never want any other.

John H. Hammond Termed Most Colorful in Capital

And He Likes To Be in Washington When Anything Is Going On

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 11.—John H. Hammond, veteran mining engineer and multimillionaire, is as picturesque an old character as makes his home in Washington—part of the time, for he lives also in New York, and New England, and occasionally in Europe for awhile, and there are spells when his mail's forwarded to him in South Africa, or Siberia, or some other out-of-the-way locality.

Here, however, is where he likes to be when anything important's going on for he takes a red hot interest in public affairs, national and international, and isn't a bit backward about dropping in at the White House itself, to spill a few words of advice now and then.

John Hays Hammond

Empire builders have listened to John Hays Hammond—and kings, and other presidents, besides the president of the United States. Generally they've listened respectfully. One or two of those who haven't have had cause later to wish they had.

ENGINEER HAMMOND certainly likes to have his suggestions favorably acted on.

When President Kruger of the now defunct Transvaal Republic refused, back in the 90's, to accord to some of them the deference which Hammond believed they were entitled to, the latter urged them on him strongly at the point of a good many machine guns.

Perhaps the enterprising young engineer—he was in his early prime then—was a little too insistent for his own safety. At any rate, he narrowly missed stretching hemp. Nevertheless, the row ended up in a regular way, which cost Kruger his job and his republic its independence, so that Hammond evidently knew what he was talking about all along.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND has been rather indefinitely mentioned several times as a Republican presidential possibility.

These hints never really meant more than that he's of presidential calibre—not that he'd make a good candidate. Any fairly good judge can tell, simply by looking at him, that he's altogether unsuited to politics.

A politician must know how to compromise and straddle, to play both ends against the middle, to conciliate and to pretend.

As may be judged from the Kruger incident, this kind of manoeuvering isn't in Engineer Hammond's line. What he wants he goes after direct, and let the chips fall where they may.

True, he's a mild mannered little man of 71 or 72, but he has a hard, hard, cold blue eye. Mildness of manner and that kid of a lamp are well recognized as frequent accompaniments of a mighty quick trigger-finger.

PARTY managers are afraid of John Hays Hammond, and always have been, for any position where efficiency and political expediency might conflict.

Consequently, although he probably isn't without ambition for public office and the managers often refer to him as a first class choice for one place or another, that's as far as he ever gets—except as to purely honorary posts. He can have all those he likes.

Just now he's chairman of the political education department of the Nonpartisan National Civic Federation, whose mission is to get out next year's vote.

At present he's seeking the answer, from replies to 60,000 questionnaires, to the problem why two-thirds of the electorate cast no ballots in 1926.

Query:

Is it because the politicians won't stand for any candidate like himself?—With a punch, so that the voters will know whom and what they're voting for?

VERITTEN REVEALS HIS PLANS

WHATEVER Philip Veritten meant by his cryptic remark, "It all fits in," when at his request and Lillian's I was describing the queer new tenants at The Larches, he did not explain it to either of us. Indeed, I am not sure that he realized he had uttered the words, for immediately following the puzzling little speech he appeared to withdraw into some realm of speculation of his own—something utterly foreign to the exquisite courtesy which is always his.

We were at the black coffee stage of the dinner and Lillian covered the situation by an apparently excited inquiry.

"Phil! Didn't Otto bring up that drawing board of mine? I don't see it anywhere, and I really must get to work at once. I've dawdled over this dinner shamefully. Oh, I'll admit it certainly was worth loitering over, but you know I'm the original poor working girl who can't be wrecked by your 'wicked dilettante'!"

From under my carefully lowered eyelashes I saw him glance swiftly from one to the other of us, in realization of his abstraction, and patent relief that we apparently had not noticed it. With a little laugh he put his hand back of Lillian's head and turned her face toward a portion of the balcony railing not ten feet from our table.

"'Eyes that see not,'" he quoted, teasingly. "There's your precious board, safe and sound, and I'm not going to offer a single objection to your going to work, for Mrs. Graham and I will have to follow your example as soon as this table is cleared."

For the next few hours the balcony, which no one else was permitted to enter, resembled a corner of a newspaper or magazine office. Bent over her drawing board, Lillian labored as industriously as if she were shut up in her own studio, while at the table which had been cleared Mr. Veritten spread out papers taken from portfolios in the emergency bag which Otto had brought up to the balcony with the drawing board and discussed with me exhaustively the problems presented by the notes and brought back with him.

It was not long before I realized readily that it was an unusual tribute which Philip Veritten was paying me. This man, counted the most artistic and scholarly theatrical producer in the country, as well as one of the shrewdest, was confiding to me his plans for his next season, showing to me the manuscripts of the plays he had procured and asking me for suggestions concerning their production. When he had summoned me to this Sunday conference by wireless I had expected to discuss with him only the questions which naturally would come to me as the historical expert of his organization. But this apparently complete revelation of his plans bewildered me.

It did more than that. I defy any woman, or man either, with ambitions presenting the same inverse ratio to experience as did mine, to go through those hours with the greatest dramatic producer of his time without being dazzled, flattered and intrigued to the nth power of interest.

He was at his best. There was no trace of the personal in his speech, his manner or in the keen, flashing eyes which rarely left my face. Incredible as it seemed, I finally became convinced that he actually valued my critical opinion and that he was confiding plans to me which not for many days would be revealed to any other person.

Another realization lay deep in my consciousness—that Philip Veritten at his best was a dangerously fascinating man. His perceptions were so clear, his mind so quick and keen, that listening to him was like watching the play of a rapier in the hands of a skilled swordsman. At first, I watched warily for a repetition of the subtle personal comments which had so angered me, but soon, I realized with a thrill beyond anything which any other tribute could have given that Philip Veritten had forgotten my sex, my appearance, everything save his belief—of such heady intoxication to me—that I had the ability to understand his plans, to share them, and, most bewildering of all, to give him valuable suggestions concerning them.

SPORT SAUCE

BY DUCKY

WHILE the moulder of this column and the carpenter of this page is dodging bullets and cooling himself in the great city of Chicago on his annual repose, for the time being, grand and glorious effort will be made to uphold the sport standard that he has established, by the substitute whose handle is mounted at the top of this page.

AND, according to the writer's opinion, there is no better place to start the work as a beam for the sport standard, than with the unusual occurrences which took place at the weekly meeting of the Commercial league teams, last Friday night.

It isn't our purpose in mentioning the near battle which took place at one of the games between the players of one team and the umpires, to ridicule the actions, but to wonder why those incidents took place.

Names and teams which took part in the squabble need not be given in this column, which strives for better sports. But regardless of opposition, the affair must be revealed.

It was in the sixth frame of one of the games between two of the most prominent teams of the league, that the bubble finally burst after a series of irritating incidents between player and umpire. A runner was called out at first base in a race which called for a close decision.

Rooters of the losing team at once set up a howl and the runner himself became incensed and finally angered to a degree that he started for the umpire with eyes flashing.

Of course, with the game being a civilized affair, no fight ensued, with the persuasion of rooters and players, and the game continued.

In a game where money is at stake or possibly a title is the object, criticisms of decisions made by umpires might be permissable, but in a game where enjoyment is the only compensation, we wonder how anyone could be inflamed so much to want to lay the umpire cold, on a single decision.

IF a certain rumor regarding a new set of bowling alleys in Marion materializes and becomes a real for sure fact, the news will be welcomed with great zest and enthusiasm by the lovers of the sport in the city.

We learn that there is a possibility of a new group of alleys in one of the buildings of the uptown district but no absolute facts have been offered in connection with the proposition. Such a move would expand the sport in the city, owing to the cramped position that must be taken in the present alleys.

The sport has grown to a great extent in the last few years and estimations are now made to the effect that nearly 1,600 Marion citizens are active bowlers.

BOTH pitchers of the Marion-Elyria contest at Lincoln Park yesterday afternoon appeared especially spiteful with each other.

Stickardt, the visitor, struck out Main of the Marion team every time that twirler faced him in the second, fifth and seventh innings. Main on the other hand fanned the opposing batsmen twice but walked him in his third trip to the plate.

"RAE" Rowan, who covers the left garden for the Marion outfit, had a great day in the field but a poor one at bat. He stabbed four flies in his position but failed to mark up anything but a base on balls at bat. Another unusual too, Rowan was struck out in the his second time to the plate.

WHITEHILL STOPS BABE AND LOU AS TIGERS WIN

Sunshine Fails To Hit in Five Chances; Score 6 to 3

New York, July 11—The cloture rained by the home-run battle which had been raging between Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig was hushed completely today as the result of the left-handed effectiveness of Earl Whitehill, who pitched the Tigers to a 6 to 3 victory over the lumbering Yanks.

Whitehill tamed the Babe completely, letting him down without a single hit in five trips to the plate. Gehrig managed to get a two-bagger in four trips.

While 30,000 fans shivered in a continuous drizzle, the Giants split a double bill with the Cards. Aided by circuit drives by Lindstrom and Mueller, the McGrawmen took the first game 5 to 0, while Barnes let the Cards down with one lone hit by O'Farrell.

The world's champions came back to take the second, however, by a score of 7 to 3. Schulte, the rookie first-stop of the Cards, smacked out a four bagger in the fiasco while Bloim touched the Giant pitchers for four hits in five trips to the plate.

The Cubs scored their ninth straight victory over Brooklyn in a pitchers' duel between Bush and Pitt which ended in a 1 to 0 verdict while ten thousand fans looked on. Pick's homer over the right field wall in the seventh put the game on ice for the boys from Chicago and there was nothing else to it.

The Senators overcame a seven-run lead to make it five straight in three days from the Indians when they came from behind to win 10-9 in a game which was stopped by rain at the end of the seventh. The Indians knocked Lisenbee from the box in the fourth when they scored 7 runs but could do nothing with three Washington relief pitchers.

The Athletics launched a slugging attack against the Browns and walloped out twenty hits to win 16 to 11. The homers were not headed, however, and answered with fifteen safeties themselves. Haas's homer and Simmons' round of boats in the fifth aided the winners who used five pitchers.

Thomas, of the White Sox, turned in his thirteenth victory of the season in trimming the Red Sox 6 to 5.

Local Sluggers Pound Out Seven Hits As Main Holds Visitors to Four Safeties

Nuniviller and Brashear Have Red-Letter Day at Bat; Rain Halts Play of Second Game in Opening Round of Fracas

BY MARION O. CHENOWETH

POUNDING the visiting pitcher for seven hits which resulted in two runs in each of the second and seventh frames, Marion Athletics baseball squad put another scalp under its belt and at the same time obtained sweet revenge over the Elyria Richwines at the Lincoln Park yesterday, with a final count of 4 to 1.

The visitors, who annexed a 4-2 victory over the local club and bit the horsehide for 10 safeties off of Morris Main, five weeks ago, yesterday were at the mercy of the gallant Marion twirler, who selfishly allowed the Elyria ice cream boys but four binglies.

With the local lads playing tip-top baseball during the entire game, rain, coming at the end of the first nine inning fracas, put a stop to another possible win over the Elyria team which was scheduled to follow the first game. Threatening showers also was responsible for lessening the number of spectators at the double billed occasion.

Red Letter Day

Yesterday was a red-letter day in the percentages of two Marion stars, Nuniviller, right fielder, and Brashear, catcher, who both socked the pill for two well-defined hits and the latter for the only double of the game. Both players, although playing a consistent part in each game this season, for the first time yesterday showed their stuff to Marion baseball fans.

Nuniviller's two hits both drove in runs in each of the scoring innings. In the second he singled and brought Price from second to home after the Marion centerfielder had walked and sacrificed to the second sack by Conroy. After hitting safely in the seventh, Conroy raced home on Nuniviller's second hit and that individual brought in the fourth tally on Brashear's double.

After Rizor had placed the gentleman of the right garden on third during the second period, it was Brashear's bat that permitted him to leave the third sack for the welcoming home platter. Conroy of the initial bag scored two hits and a sacrifice in four trips to the rubber.

Caught Napping

Smith, flashy short stop of the visitors, had the best day of any of the visitors at bat. With one on in the first inning, he crashed out a hit that would have brought the runner into home ahead of him had not that player been caught napping and thrown out. Smith scored the only run of the team in the sixth on a hit by Hastings after he had gained the first sack on an error by Main.

The visitors started after the ball in the first frame and when it was over they were marked up with two hits and a base on balls. With two on base and one out Arndt, clean-up for Elyria, came to bat only to fly to Rowan and he was followed to the bench by Sowinski who rolled to Main.

First Two Runs

Successive hits by Nuniviller, Rizor and Brashear brought in the first two Marion tallies in the second frame. Price, gaining a base on balls, was sacrificed to second by Conroy and scored when Nuniviller hit safely.

Both of the twirlers were accredited with four strikeouts. Main walked four while Stickardt passed but two.

The second game of the afternoon was stopped in the first inning of play. Reese was on the mound for Marion while the rest of the line-up was unchanged. Stickardt was slated to go the route for the seven innnig game after losing the first.

SHARKEY COCKY

Welsh Suggests Opponent of Dempsey Mix With Buzz Saw

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, July 11—Having peered with rapt attention at our favorite orator for several days, the writer can discover only one possible argument against Jack Sharkey's chances on the night of July 21 and it remained today for his manager, Johnny Buckley, to point it out. John, of course, was not finding fault with his man. John simply was pointing with pride, as every manager should and will and does.

He announced with a hint of triumph in his tones that Sharkey was becoming a mixer, willing to trade for his for years and all that sort of eyewash.

There you have it, that is the chink in Sharkey's armor. He is to vain, too confident, to cockaure for his own good with a fight with a man like Dempsey only a bit more than a week away. Off-hand, the writer would suggest that Sharkey play safe by going out and mixing with the first buzz saw he can find. Dempsey may be slow but the punch is there.

MARION BINCOS TAKE FIFTH WIN AT SOMERVILLE

Locals Get 7 to 5 Decision in Game Featured by Errors; Rife Pitches

Marion Binco baseball nine continued its winning streak by winning a 7 to 5 decision over the fast Somerville squad at Somerville, yesterday afternoon.

The locals started the scoring in the third frame with three runs and after that fateful inning the game was not in doubt as to the winner. After tallying one in each of the fifth and sixth, the Somerville nine came back strong and ran a total of three scores over the rubber. Marion, however, continued their scoring in the seventh and eighth innings and gained another lead on the home team.

Rife, southpaw of the Marion outfit, let the holders of the cellar position of the Tri-County League have but eight hits while the Marion crew obtained nine. Errors were abundant on both sides and came at several climaxing times of the periods.

Rob, Somerville twirler, fanned eight of the Marion players while Rife succeeded in downing but five. Rob, however, issued five bases on balls and the local tosser passed but one.

Courter and W. Merchant were successful in walloping the pill for three base hits and Pat, Sawyer and Lowe accounted for two baggers.

Walker, catcher of the Marion Bincos, was knocked unconscious and taken from the game as a result of a clash with Third Baseman Klehm while fielding a ball. He was replaced by W. Merchant.

The win yesterday brought the total number of victories to five and with no defeats the Bincos are still in undisputed possession of first place in the Tri-County League.

BOBBY JONES ATTEMPTS TO REGAIN OPEN TITLE

In Pouring Rain Former American Open Champ Starts Play Today

St. Andrews, Scotland, July 11—In a pouring rain, as only Scottish rain can pour, Bobby Jones started his effort today to retain his title as British open golf champion.

Partnered by R. A. Whitcomb, Jones went to the first tee in the qualifying rounds of the tournament with a huge gallery behind him. Up to the time of Jones appearance the gallery had remained under cover but when the champion set forth, the Scots forgot the rain, and its discomforts and trailed at the heels of the American, who is a close to one favorite to win the championship.

Jones appeared unworried by the rain and was on the green at the first hole in two but was strong with his putt and missed a birdie. He sunk a two-yard putt for a par four as his initial effort.

Jones played the first three holes in 4-4-4 which was not as good as the par-right fours scored by Whitcomb.

Stars Play

Charles Mayo, an American entrant, and Cyril Tolley had started the tournament playing the first qualifying round over the old course while Bill Melhorn, of Chicago, partnered by Gordon Brown, of the royal and ancient, started the qualifying rounds on the new course.

Some two hundred players are playing thirty-six qualifying holes today, eighteen over the new course and eighteen over the old course. The same program will maintain tomorrrw and

EVERY DAY IS FIGHT DAY FOR EX-CHAMPION, CLAIM

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 11—After a day devoted largely to the pursuit of the elusive golf ball, Jack Dempsey today readied up for another stiff workout.

"Every day that I work now is fight day for me," he said. "This Leo P. Flynn keeps throwing three or four new sparring partners at me every day. And all of them go out with orders to sock me dizzy. They try it and it keeps me hustling to cure them of the idea."

"You know," added the ex-champion, "this stunt of having new guys jumping in at you each day isn't the softest job in the world. I don't know who half of them are, I don't know how good or how bad they are. All I know is that they are around for the known purpose of working out with me and the sort of inner purpose of trying to drop me on my spinal column."

BARGER, NEWMAN RENEW THEIR WARFARE IN JAIL

Hurl Nasty Expressions at Each Other as One Passes Other's Cell

Benton, Ill., July 11—Open warfare between Charles Birger and Art Newman who, together with Ray "Izzy" Hyland, are on trial here for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, broke out afresh today as the notorious gangsters of Little Egypt were being taken from the Franklin County Jail to the courthouse where a jury is in the process of selection for their trial.

Ever since Newman outwitted the battery of defense attorneys last Friday by forcing his own lawyer to withdraw action tending toward a separate trial, Birger has realized that all hope of closing the breech between himself and his former comrade in crime is good. He has lost no opportunity to threaten and curse Newman.

Birger's cell is on the second floor of the county jail. Newman is imprisoned on the first with Hyland. As the former gang-leader passed Newman's cell on the way out, he stopped close to the open wicket and snarled:—"You—double crossing snitcher. You'll get yours and it won't be long in coming if you don't shut your—trap."

Newman, after replying in kind, hailed Millard Loren, the jailer and said:

"Loren, ask the sheriff to open this cell and put that dirty rat in here with me for just five minutes and I promise you that when I get through with him Franklin County won't have to spend and money for his trial."

The jailer pushed Birger ahead of him out of the jail and when the two faced each other in court, additional guards prevented a renewal of the words battle.

DELAY PLENARY SESSION, MANY REASONS GIVEN

Murder of O'Higgins and Desire To Prevent Parley Break-Up Among Them

Geneva, July 11—The plenary session of the triparitite naval conference today was postponed indefinitely owing to the assassination of Kevin O'Higgins, vice president and foreign secretary of the Irish Free State. Official announcement of the postponement said that this action was taken because O'Higgins was a member of the British delegation. Recently he spent a few days here.

Although the official statement attributed the postponement to the assassination of Kevin O'Higgins, observers declared the real reason back of the delay was a desire to prevent the break up of the conference.

Not To Let Down

The Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, chief British delegate, had asked for the plenary session but it is said that he realized that if it were held today with the cruiser tonnage question still in dispute, that the parley might break down and that world opinion would hold Great Britain responsible for the failure of the conference.

There is no indication whether Great Britain's decision for delay means that she is prepared to let down in her demands and accept the compromise on cruiser tonnage which have been offered.

Some observers are of the opinion that Great Britain will not back down in her stand but will seek delay in order to raise new issues which may make it possible to shift the blame for the failure of the conference to the United States or Japan.

To Pay O'Higgins Tribute

The plenary session which had been scheduled for today was anticipated with a good deal of apprehension on all sides and the postponement does not alleviate the tensity but merely defers it, for, as yet, it appears to be nothing more than a postponement.

Kevin O'Higgins was the Irish delegate at the conference and had only returned to Dublin a few days ago. It is expected that steps will be taken to pay him tribute.

The postponement decision was reached after Bridgeman has conferred during the night with the Japanese and had called a meeting of the British delegates and the dominion delegates.

JOHN E. HOPLEY SUCCUMBS AT BUCYRUS HOME

Toxine Poisoning Resulting From Burns Fatal to Prominent Man

Bucyrus, July 11—John Edward Hopley, 77, died at his home here Sunday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock from toxine poisoning and other infirmities. Mr. Hopley had been an invalid since 1923, gradually losing the use of his lower limbs.

On Wednesday, June 29, while resting on a couch on the front porch of the homestead, his bed clothing caught fire and before assistance arrived he was severely burned about the hands and face. Toxine poisoning developed and his weakened physical condition could not counteract the effect, causing his death.

John E. Hopley was born Aug. 28, 1850, near Elkton, Todd County, Kentucky, the second son of John Pratt Hopley and Georgiana Rochester Hopley, both of whom died in 1904.

In 1856, his parents moved to Bucyrus, where he and the family have lived ever since.

After studying law and being admitted to the bar in 1876 Mr. Hopley spent some time at the printer's trade in Cincinnati and New York.

Started Evening Telegraph

Returning to Bucyrus in 1887 he organized and started The Bucyrus Evening Telegraph, which was combined in 1895 with the Bucyrus Weekly Journal, which had been purchased by his father in 1867, and a family corporation, The Hopley Printing Co., organized and incorporated to conduct both papers.

Early in his business career, Mr. Hopley became interested in politics and in 1894 he had charge of the campaign that elected Stephan R. Harris to congress, and Mr. Hopley was appointed secretary to Mr. Harris the two years he served.

In 1895, Mr. Hopley had charge of the campaign of Hon. Frank S. Monnett, now of Columbus, which resulted in Mr. Monnetts' nomination and election as attorney general of Ohio.

In Diplomatic Service

In 1897 Mr. Hopley took an active hand in the campaign of M. A. Hanna, for United States Senator and in 1898 was appointed by President William McKinley as consul to the port of Southampton, England, and five years later was promoted to the consulship at Montevideo, Uruguay.

Mr. Hopley's parents died in 1904 and he returned to Bucyrus to become president of the Hopley Printing Co. and editor of the Bucyrus Evening Telegraph.

The paper continuously advocated good roads and when the Lincoln Highway movement was started Mr. Hopley was made State Counsel for Ohio by the Lincoln Highway association. The work was so well conducted by Mr. Hopley that through the publicity in his paper there is an east and west and north and south permanently paved road across Crawford County and over 80 per cent of the county roads are improved.

Socially and fraternally, Mr. Hopley was an Elk and Mason being the first exalted ruler of the local Elks when they were reorganized in 1894-95. He was a 32nd degree Mason and a past master of the Masonic order and past worthy patron of the Eastern Stars.

Mr. Hopley was never married and leaves four brothers and three sisters.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Kenton Outfit Strengthens Hold on Tri-County League Lead as Richwood 9 Loses

Prospect Loses to Redlegs at Idlewild Park; Score 4 to 1

Kenton, July 11—Playing brilliant ball, the Kenton Reds easily defeated the Prospect nine 4 to 1 at Idlewild park diamonds here. The contest was one of a series being played for the championship of Marion, Union and Hardin Counties.

Despite the fact that a total of nine errors were chalked up, both clubs showed up well in field play. The Reds batted Garron, Prospect's pitching ace for a total of six hits, two of them triples. He succeeded in fanning but four batters.

Hathcock who started for Kenton, pitched good ball until relieved in the last innings by Ray Ferner, lengthy right hander. Both men allowed three hits and fanned nine batters.

The locals did their scoring in the fourth and eighth frames, Kellar, Leis, Lingrel and Hathcock crossing the plate. Errors were responsible for the first two runs while the latter two came in during an eighth inning hitfest. Goodicke, Prospect's center fielder, scored their lone tally in the sixth frame crossing the plate on Johnson's single.

Marysville Voss Fords Triumph In Pitchers' Battle By 2-1 Score

Richwood, July 11—Richwood slipped a notch further back of the dust-raising Kenton Reds in the Tri-county baseball race here yesterday and Marysville Voss Fords raised themselves to the .500 mark as the latter won a hard fought game which ended 2-1.

The matter was a pitcher's battle, pure and simple. Roseberry, moundsman for the locals and the loser, was a shade more heroic after the noise had subsided because of his valiant work at bat. His long drive for a home run in the seventh was responsible for Richwood's only counter. He struck out five men as compared to his rival twirler's four.

Fensel, Marysville's pitcher had the best of the argument in regard to hits. Richwood sluggers, the majority of whom failed to sdig, nicked him for four bingles. The Voss Fords touched Roseberry for six hits. Aside from Roseberry's drive, Winnett's three-base clout was a feature.

Roseberry issued two free trips to the initial sack while Fensel was wild but in one instance.

TO COMPLETE RAILROAD TRACKING BY NOV. 1

Big Four Project in Logan County Is Nearly Finished

Kenton, July 11—The double tracking project being carried on by the Big Four railroad between Kenton and Bellefontaine, will be completed and ready for use by Nov. 1, according to the resident engineer in charge of construction.

First work in Hardin County is under way at Telverton, south of here, where a steam shovel is lowering the grade for the overhead crossing to be erected jointly by the railroad and the Board of Hardin County Commissioners.

Work on the double tracking in Logan County is nearing completion with all the grading established. The track laying gang is working near Huntsville.

A total of 350,000 yards of dirt will be used for fills and grading between Kenton and Bellefontaine. The most of the filling in Hardin County is to be done with the dirt from the Telverton and Silvercreek cuts.

The connecting link between the Big Four and Toledo & Ohio Central Lines, starting near Kohler-st, on the northern edge of the city, has been approved by the Big Four officials and is expected to be approved by the T. & O. C. lines in the near future.

All properties needed for the right of way for the connecting line, with the exception of three, have been purchased, it was stated. Only one building is to be moved for the laying of the line while some are to be torn down.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

Almost all the blue from the ink is off of me now since my ant washed me for Sunday School yesterday morning. I think she was blaming me because the turkle was in the bathtub, but she is blaming everyone because she can't prove it on me and get me licked. Me and Jubilee looked at each other when we woke up and we both felt pretty lucky because she couldn't.

I was lucky that I carried it under my shirt instead of in one of the pails of water, because my father looked at me like he would bite me in two and he said: "Did you see that turkle in the basket when you carried the water upstairs?" and I said: "No sir." And he said: "Did you put it in the bucket and carry it upstairs?" And I said: "No sir." And he said: "Did you carry it upstairs in your hand?" And I said: "No sir." So then he stopped asking questions. And then my mother said to him: "You know you have often read about showers of fish and showers of toadfrogs. Why couldn't that turkle been showered down and landed on the roof and slid down the pipe into the cistern and growed big there?" My father said he didn't know why it couldn't but he didn't believe it did. I don't believe it could've. I bet if a turkle fell all the way from heaven and hit our house on the roof it would come right through or bounce a mile high.

He said: "Did you carry it upstairs in your hand?"

My ant said she was never more mortified in her life then when she found the minister and his wife there, and my mother said neither were they. My grandfather said he would of gave five dollars to of been there and seen the minister's face. Then my ant said he wasn't no gentleman, and she grabbed me and drug me out to wash me for Sunday school, and the way she rubbed me she must of thought she got even.

Today was Monday and nothing much happened. All the school kids are trying to get jobs. I went to the drugstore on the corner and got a job hopping on the running boards of autos and taking the orders. When a lady would order a grapejuice I would bring her an ice cream soda and she would say that wasn't what she ordered and I would have to eat it and bring her a grapejuice. I was so full the ice cream was almost running out of my ears when the bunch came around and wanted me to go swimming, so I quit and went. I can swim further under water than any of them.

Peter's Adventures

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A VANISHING TRIBE

MRS. BEAVER wiped a tear from her eye with her paw then she glared at Peter and he felt very uncomfortable indeed.

"Oh, I am sorry." The boy started to saw something, but Mrs. Beaver would not listen.

"Sorry! What good does that do?" cried she. "Make the rest of your race stop setting traps for us if you really want to prove yourself our friend. When you return to your people, tell them that I say unless they do stop soon there will be no Beavers left in all the world!"

Mrs. Beaver gulped back a sob and Mr. Beaver sighed and took up the tale.

"Alas, we are a vanishing tribe," said he. "Every spring finds fewer of the furry folk alive and well. Once we Beavers were a large, happy family. We lived life in our own way, bothering nobody and not often did any one bother us. How busy were we building wigwams to house our families and dams to protect our homes! Then we were as merry as the nights were long.

"NOW WE ARE BEING DRIVEN FROM THE FACE OF THE EARTH."

"Now—now we are being driven from the face of the earth, slaughtered for our soft brown fur. Not so long ago the ponds rang with the whack of our tails. Soon, oh, so soon, they will be silent! Should there be one Beaver left to beat the call to arms there will be none of the tribe to gather at the summons!"

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear me! We are a vanishing tribe!" wailed B. Z. Beaver and his wife together, and both dabbed at their eyes with their furry little paws.

Peter looked at the unhappy creatures and tried to think of something comforting to say, but not a word would come. Then when the Boy was just about to wish himself a mile away B. Z. spoke, and Peter was delighted to hear that his voice sounded far more cheerful.

"Well, well, well! What two silly creatures we are wife! As if your tears and mine could help the cause of the Beavers one single bit! This is no time for weeping.

"We must be up and doing if we would be of service to our tribe, and, above all, we must use our wits to keep out of the Two-Legs' traps for I suppose just as long as they have trappers and we wear fur the Humans and the Beavers will be at odds. So what in the world is the use of mourning any more about it?

"Besides, the Boy is not to blame for the sins of his race. He is a friend of our tribe—I would stake my life upon it. He has heard enough of this 'sob' story—let us talk of pleasanter things!"

"It suits me husband," replied Mrs. Beaver. "But if you can trust a Two-Legs—any Two-Legs—after what we Beavers have suffered at their hands, why, it is more than I can do. I hate the whole race, I do."

"But, my dear wife, that is a terrible thing to say in the hearing of one who has just saved your husband from a horrible fate. The Boy here warned me just in time or I would have swam straight into the jaws of that trap over yonder!"

BULLISH ACTIVITY HELPS STOCKS IN PRICE ADVANCE

Baldwin Locomotive Leads Movement in Specialty Group, Has New Record

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks firm; industrial stocks steady; domestic bonds steady; foreign bonds irregular; call money 4 per cent; grain steady; sugar steady; oil steady; cotton firm; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron steady; foreign exchange steady.

New York, July 11—Bullish activity characterized the stock market for the most part today, although a few weak spots developed in the face of the general advance in prices.

Baldwin Locomotive led the movement in the specialty group, soaring to the highest price in its history, 241, an advance of 4 points. Jordan reached new high ground on the movement at 20⅝, up 1⅛. Others to reach new tops were Union Carbide & Carbon, General Electric, Lorillard Tobacco, American Can, Sterling Products, and International Silver and Lambert which scored gains of from one to three and a quarter points.

Industrial specialties and some of the rails were the chief centers of bullish activity although the market as a whole met with good support. General Electric behaved quite impressively, moving up 1½ points to 118½, a new high for the present shares.

Strength was also apparent in a number of the speculative favorites including Timken Roller Bearings, Woolworth, Park & Tilford, American Brown Boveri, National Distillers, A. N. Byers, Radio Corporation, International Telephone & Telegraph, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and United Drug.

Railroad stocks during the forenoon were strong, too. Atlantic Coastline recorded an advance of over five points. Gains were also made by Rock Island, Kansas City Southern and Louisville & Nashville, all of which attained new highs for the year. Strength in St. Louis Southwestern & Missouri, Kansas & Texas which made gains of from one to three points, was due to expectations that the revised merger plans of these roads would meet the approval of the interstate commerce commission.

Motor stocks, however, were rather sluggish. General Motors advanced over a point but lost part of its gain later. Mack Truck, at 94, held steady for a time during early trading and then yielded a point. Paramount Famous Players-Lasky declined on the announcement of the order of the federal trade commission instructing the company to revise its policy. Other amusement shares sold off in sympathy with this development.

Other weak spots were Collins Aikman and Union Bag & Paper which declined over a point each on profit taking.

HELP MISSION

Nearly 300 Outcasts of Kansas City Building Structure

Kansas City, Mo., July 11—Nearly 300 outcasts; unemployed, down-and-outers, vagrants and petty characters of the famous North Side, the "underworld" sector of Kansas City, have gone to work without pay. The men, many of them in dire need of food and clothing, are donating their services to the City Union Mission, an undenominational institution, for the purpose of constructing a summer camp, for a series of two months' meetings.

The city is donating tents, and several Kansas City firms are giving the equipment necessary for the project.

The "Church in Overalls" is the name of the new house of God, and a hearty invitation to "come as you are" has been issued to all who "seek the light," regardless of their past or present.

The present mission house has long been the seat of enlargement for slightly, more than 100 men served by meetings conducted by E. E. Bulkley, city superintendent. The district is extremely thickly Education takes approximately thirty cents out of each dollar expended by the state government of Ohio, according to records compiled by the U. S. Census Bureau. No other single item of expenditure by the Ohio government equals that for schools and libraries.

The second largest item of expense is that of correctional institutions. These include prisons, reform schools and farms, courts and similar institutions. Approximately twenty-two cents of each Ohio government dollar is expended for correction.

The exercise of the police power costs the state eight cents. This money is spent for the protection of life and property. This eight cents in each dollar supports the militia, the game wardens, and such officers as are clothed with police and regulatory powers.

Nineteen cents out of each Ohio government dollar goes to the building and repair of roads and highways. This is the third largest item of expense being exceeded only by education and correction.

The conservation of natural resources accounts for six cents. This includes forest conservation. Approximately two cents is paid out for health maintenance and protection. General administration costs nine cents. This item includes the cost of maintaining the executive branch of the state government. Miscellaneous expenditures total four cents.

Jerry Regan, 24, was arrested near the Leader at viaduct at 10:30 Saturday night was locked up at police headquarters on an intoxication charge.

ONE HURT, FIVE ESCAPE WHEN CARS COLLIDE

Ragan Patterson, 35, Wood-st, Sustains Crushed Arm in Bucyrus-rd Crash

Two automobiles were partly wrecked, one man suffered a broken arm and possibly other injuries which may prove serious, and five others escaped practically unhurt in a collision which occurred on the Bucyrus-pk, a short distance north of Crystal Lake Park, about 10 o'clock Saturday night.

The injured man is Ragan Patterson, 35, Wood-st, who is at the city hospital, where he was taken immediately following the accident. His right arm was crushed and fractured. Whether there are other injuries has not been definitely ascertained, the attending physician reported today.

One of Five Men

Patterson was one of five men riding in the Studebaker coach owned by J. T. Wiles, 134 Park-blvd, who was driving. The Wiles machine crashed into the rear of a Buick touring car, owned and driven by J. H. Ramey, 146 Superior-st, while both were going north.

Wiles says that the Ramey car turned toward the middle of the road when he started to pass. This account is disputed by Ramey.

The Wiles car struck the rear of the Ramey machine, crushing one side and then skidded into the ditch about 100 feet ahead.

Top Torn Off

The impact was of such violence that the top of the Ramey car was ripped from its fastenings, the rear axle was broken and running boards stripped.

Running boards and fenders on both sides of the Wiles car were demolished and the windshield and steering wheel broken

In the machine with Wiles and Patterson were Virgil Bush and Paul Sifritt of this city and a Delaware man whose name could not be learned. One of Sifritt's fingers was cut but the injury is not serious.

Both machines were towed to a local garage for repairs.

How Long Will Fame Last Lindbergh? Rodgers' Plane is Now Only Curiosity

PITTSBURGH, July 11—Will the achievement of Captain Charles A. Lindbergh last long in the minds of those who praise him now?

This question confronts one starkly on visiting the Carnegie Museum here. Within the building is another aeroplane and a picture of its pilot the achievements of both long since forgotten.

Galbraith Perry Rodgers was the pilot's name. But that stirs no memory in the mind of the average American today, mute testimony in the fickleness of the goddess of fame and fortune.

Rodgers started the world away back in 1911 when he announced he would attempt a flight across the United States. On September 17 of the year he started. The flier finished his "hop" on November 5, 1911. It took the then daring aviator three days, 10 hours and four minutes actual flying time to complete his trip.

Wonderful Achievement

It was a wonderful achievement in that day. And well it might have been, for no aviator today would dare venture into the air in the contraption Rodgers used. The wings of the machine were flimsy. The wooden frame looks like it would crumple at a particularly strong puff of wind, and the connection between motor and propellers was made of chain links.

There the machine hangs, high up in the ceiling of the museum. The only clue to its identity is a plaque on a pillar nearly which says:

"Galbraith Perry Rodgers' historic flight across the United States, 4,231 miles, September 17, 1911—November 5, 1911, three days ten hours and four minutes actual flying time. He was one of the first group of martyrs to the science of aviation which since has been developed to such a phenomenal point of efficiency."

Public Has Forgotten

And that is all the public cares about that flight today.

A Sunday afternoon visitor at the museum overhears many amusing and some cryptic comments on the machine and its flier. The significance the importance of that early flight fails to register. One group of high school girls, approaching the spot where the historic plane hangs overhead, were heard to make statements something like this:

"Humph, Lindbergh flew across the United States in two jumps"

"I don't see what they want with that old thing up there. Why don't they get Lindy's plane and bring it here."

Other comments were similar in nature.

FLORIDA SOLDIER OF FORTUNE IS CLAIMED

Seamen Mourning Death of Picturesque Albert C. Gerbode

Cocoa, Fla., July 11—Seamen along Florida's East Coast and "The Keys" are mourning the death of one of this state's most picturesque soldiers of fortune, Albert C. Gerbode, who went to his final resting place in Davy Jones locker about a mile off the Cocoa coast just as he had always expected.

Gerbode's principal source of revenue during the past number of years was imported liquors from Cuba and the Bahamas. He was recognized as one of the largest smugglers of the forbidden fluid in southern waters and was regarded by coast guard crews as one of the most daring and non-fearing of rum-runners.

Recently, when overtaken by a coast guard rum-chaser, Gerbode poured gasoline over the decks of his ship and set fire to it rather than be taken. He jumped overboard and swam to shore at a lonely point near Key West, about a mile from his ship. He then watched it blow up as the flames reached the gasoline tank.

The soldier of fortune first gained notoriety when he and a party of American archaeologists are said to have robbed the tomb of the ancient Hawaiian King, securing his crown, royal jewels, and furnishing of the tomb for the King's trip into "the other world."

From a historical value, Gerbode's loot was invaluable, while native Hawaiian princes pledged their lives for its return. Gerbode and his party were followed by a group of Hawaiians and part of his loot recovered and returned to Hawaii.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLING

Howard Saunders, 17, of 642 Waterloo-st, was arrested early last night and will be arraigned in juvenile court on a charge of speeding. Saunders was driving 42 miles an hour, according to the arresting officer.

TAVERN PROFITEERING AROUSES TOURISTS' IRE

Motoring in Great Britain May Experience Serious Setback

London, July 11—Barefaced profiteering at a great number of hotels throughout Britain has aroused a storm of protest from motorists and other travelers.

Owing to the number of complaints received, the Owner-Drivers' Club, of Piccadilly, intends to prepare a black list of hotel keepers whose charges have been proved to be excessive.

The club gives an instance of a flagrant instance in a Buckingham village. Four motorists drove up to a small hotel and ordered a plain tea. For this they were charged twenty-five shillings—over six dollars—an extortionate price for Britain.

Another instance is of a hotel at Torquay, where the furniture is pre-Victorian, wall-paper dilapidated, gas the only lighting, and no hot water. Yet the charges are on the scale of the most fashionable London hotels.

Throughout England the complaint goes forth that for tenth rate accommodation and bad food, country inns and hotels charge prices at least 200 per cent above value. Curiously enough there is very little grievance against the big hotels. But unless something is done to curb the grandiloses of the smaller places, motoring in Britain will experience a serious setback.

The Automobile Association, which employs a staff of traveling inspectors, is also keeping a sharp eye on the situation. Last year it removed 30 hotels from its recommended list.

Home of Field, Children's Poet, Has Become Shrine

Eugene Field's Home in Denver, Colo., and sketches of some of the best known characters in his poems, Little Boy Blue, the Little Tin Soldier and the Little Toy Dog.

DENVER, Colo., July 11—Across from the mint in Denver, sitting back from the street on a green terrace, is the little frame cottage Eugene Field, famed for his children's poems, called home during the two years he lived here.

Field came to Denver when he was 31, and from 8811 to 1883 was managing editor of the old Denver Tribune.

Through the generosity of Mrs. J. J. Brown, philanthropist and society woman, the house has become a permanent memorial to the poet. Its recent dedication took on the proportions of a civic celebration.

Although Field resided here a brief two years, they were two ears hilariously passed and still are the subject of gustful discussion.

By the world at large Field is acclaimed for his poetic genius, but by old timers in Denver he is remembered principlly as a genius for mischief, a man whose irrepressible humor kept the town convulsed with laughter, the victims of his hoaxes with rage.

The poet of the children Field is called. This is easy to understand. Childish glee was intrinsically a part of him; exuberance, the high spirit of youth, frothed and gurgled wherever Eugene Field held sway.

Typical Field Joke

That Field was everything that the common conception of the regulation bard it not was especially proved at the time Oscar Wilde paid a visit to Denver during his American tour. Field learned that Wilde was delayed a day in his itinerary, the reception committee being in ignorance of this fact. Donning a blonde wig, attiring himself in outlandish garments, he boarded the train Wilde was supposed to arrive on at a stop above Denver, and with a sunflower in his buttonhole and a lily in his hand, he was received in state and driven through the streets in an open carriage, gaped at on all sides by admiring throngs.

The paper he edited was an instrument incessantly used in the exploitation of his incorrigible wit. Perhaps the height of his audacity was reached in a professed interview with Brigham Young's alleged wives, when the Mormon leader and his wife registered at a local hotel.

Children Aid

Through a movement inaugurated by Mrs. Brown, and sponsored by Governor William H. Adams, the memory of Field's life in Denver is to be perpetuated by Colorado school children. Their aid is being sought in the maintenance of the shrine. The 300,000 children attending schools in the state are asked to contribute their pennies to the establishment of a fund, giving them an opportunity to manifest their appreciation for one whose gifts have done so much to bring joy into their lives.

So far as possible the house and its furnishings have been restored to a condition similar to the time of Field's occupancy of it.

HAGENBECK-WALLACE ELEPHANTS STAMPEDE

Man and Huge Animal Killed When Train Sweeps into Herd

Chicago, July 11—Four hundred performers in the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus rode out to Woodlawn cemetery yesterday and held memorial services for 58 fellow troupers killed in the disastrous circus-train wreck near Hammond, Ind., in June, 1918.

While the circus band played "Lead, Kindly Light," and other sacred hymns for circus folk, their living prototypes knelt in the shadow of the five granite elephants that stand before the Showman League's plot of green.

Wreck in Aurora

By coincidence, on this, the day of the memorial, another Hagenbeck-Wallace wreck occurred, this time in Aurora, Ill. One man, a performer named Andra Stickwell, was killed, and six were injured, a faint echo of the 1918 tragedy, when 84 were killed and 179 injured.

The accident occurred early Sunday morning when an Aurora & Elgin interurban car, itself, carrying home a crowd from the circus performance swept into a herd of four elephants.

Elephant Is Killed

Stickwell an the elephant he rode were instantly killed, he being crushed beneath the animal as it sank to the ground.

An inquest over Stickwell's body will be held today in Aurora.
